

North Koreans shoot down U.S. Copter

WASHINGTON (AP) - North Korea gunned down an American helicopter today, killed three crewmen, captured another, and rebuffed U.S. demands for an immediate meeting on the tension-raising incident.

President Carter said the craft apparently strayed into Communist territory through navigational error. He said he wants to insure "this does not escalate into a confrontation."

The North Koreans charged the Chinook chopper had made a deep intrusion into their airspace and was armed. American officials said it was carrying construction materials.

Communist representatives failed to show up at the Panmunjom truce village, although they offered to discuss the incident there on Saturday.

Carter told seven senators who came to the White House that the North Koreans first fired a warning shot and the helicopter landed.

He said the Americans then "got out and inspected their helicopter, and then got into the helicopter and took off. After they took off, the North Koreans who were approaching apparently shot the helicopter down."

"We understand that two of the crew members were killed when the helicopter crashed. Another was killed in the exchange of gunfire in some way we don't know yet. And the fourth one apparently has been captured."

At Panmunjom, there was no word on the Americans' identity or the disposition of the bodies.

The United Nations command in Seoul said the helicopter flew over North Korean territory unintentionally after it missed its landing site in the south.

"We asked the North Koreans to meet with us immediately at Panmunjom to discuss the whole incident," Carter told the senators. "We are asking them to expedite this meeting. At this time it's scheduled for Friday our time...We are trying to move it up if we can."

The President said the chopper was on "a routine flight from the west coast of Korea to the east coast in daylight" and that it apparently lost a navigational fix.

"Of course, that's a surmise," the President said.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the helicopter was apparently hit by North Korean gunfire when it crossed the demarcation line. But he said he did not know the sort of weapons used.

"It landed briefly, was inspected by the crew, was evidently approached by North Korean personnel," he said. "The helicopter took off and was shot down."

The spokesman said that while the President used the term "exchange of gunfire" there was "no indication there was an exchange in the sense of American or South Korean fire directed at North Koreans."

He said the helicopter was unarmed but he did not know if the crew members carried weapons.

Powell said the helicopter first took off from a military base at Pyongyang, about 35 miles south of Seoul on the Korean west coast.

It headed for Pangnong on the South Korean east coast about 15 or 20 miles south of the DMZ on "a strictly materiel support or transport mission, supporting the construction of an observation post in mountainous terrain just south of the DMZ," Powell said. He later said the post was being built for the United Nations Command. He also said he had no indication that the helicopter ever picked up its load or landed south of the DMZ after the Pyongyang-Taek takeoff.

"The aircraft apparently veered north at the eastern end of the DMZ at the Pangnong area," the spokesman told reporters at a news briefing.

He said conflicting reports had been received about the exact location where the helicopter was shot down and he refused to give their range.

He said it was down "at least partially" in a river.

The spokesman said warning shots were fired by the South Koreans just south of the DMZ to alert the Americans they were over

North Korean territory.

The United Nations command in Seoul said the intrusion into North Korean air space was unintentional. It requested immediate return of crew and craft as well as an urgent meeting at Panmunjom.

The North Koreans countered with a proposal that the session be delayed until Saturday. They ignored a U.N. call for a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday (7 a.m. EDT) and did not reply to another proposal that they meet Friday.

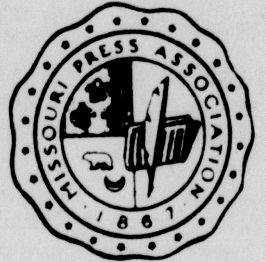

While the official North Korean news agency announced the deaths of three of the men aboard, White House spokesman Jody Powell said the fate of all four men was uncertain.

Other U.S. sources said a beeper signal was heard, indicating at least one crewman had survived.

12 acres donated for kindergarten

A 12-acre plot of land has been donated to the Sikeston R-6 Board of Education for use as a new kindergarten building site, Supt. Sam Harbin announced today.

The land, donated by Mrs. Dorothy Matthews and her children, was accepted Wednesday by the board during an executive meeting.

The property is located 1200 feet east of Highway 61 North along a yet to be extended portion of East Salcedo Road on a section of land currently farmed by Jake Weeks.

Harbin said he will meet soon with Parent-Teacher Organization presidents, civic club presidents and the district's Citizens Advisory Council to outline general plans for the kindergarten building and ask for suggestions and ideas.

Harbin said the board is happy with the site. The property is located in the path of future community growth and is large enough for an elementary school building if one is needed in the future, he said.

The school is being designed by the architectural firm of Whitworth, Foust & Stearnes, Inc. Bob Stearnes, a partner in the firm, has met with the kindergarten building committee and has prepared sketches of the proposed building.

He could not make working drawings of the structure until the site was designated, Harbin said.

Tentative plans call for a bond issue to be presented to district voters September referendum, Harbin said. The size of the bond issue has not been decided.

If the issue is approved, the board hopes to have the kindergarten building ready for the 1978-79 school year, Harbin said.

Plans call for a 14-room building with brick veneer over concrete block. The building will have about 22,000 square feet and will serve about 400 five-year-olds.

The building will replace the existing kindergarten facility located at Sikeston Memorial Airport. The aging wooden structures originally were constructed as military barracks.

New York City staggers under power blackout

NEW YORK (AP) — They started turning New York back on today, but the city was still reeling from a total electrical blackout triggered when lightning hit power lines and generating stations.

The blackout, which shut down the nation's largest city at 9:34 Wednesday night, continued into this afternoon as power technicians struggled to restore electricity one section at a time.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame declared a state of emergency and called for an investigation: "We cannot tolerate in this age of modern technology a power system that can shut down the nation's largest city."

The blackout, unlike the 1965 power outage that affected the whole Northeast, was limited to New York City, most of adjoining Westchester County and parts of Long Island. Also unlike 1965, there was looting in the city this time. Police arrested 2,000 persons during the long, humid night — at least six times as many as on an average night. The worst incidents of looting were in the city's Manhattan (primarily East Harlem and the upper West Side), Bronx and Brooklyn boroughs; 78 police officers were reported injured, including one who was shot.

At noon, slightly more than half of Con

Edison's nearly 2.8 million residential and commercial customers were still without power. Officials said they hoped to have most back in service by 2 p.m., but there was a possibility that some people might not get power for another 24 hours.

Con Ed said that all of Westchester County, all of the borough of Staten Island and most of the borough of Queens had power by noon.

In an article on page 1 of Wednesday's edition of The Daily Standard, Missouri Delta Community Hospital administrator Harold Jones was reported as saying that the hospital has to improve its methods of obtaining blood. The story should have said the hospital has improved its methods of obtaining blood.

But in the Bronx only 5 per cent had electricity, in Brooklyn less than 20 per cent and in Manhattan, only 25 per cent. Lower Manhattan, the nation's financial hub, was still dark.

Officials said it would be at least two hours after full power restoration before the city's subways, on which millions depend for primary transportation, could start running.

For the most part, New Yorkers took the blackout in friendly stride. When the lights went out, they came out of the apartment buildings and brownstones carrying flashlights and candles to chat with their neighbors, help direct traffic and drink what cold beer and soda they could find.

Small crowds gathered on street corners, traded anecdotes and listened to transistor radios blaring the details of the story.

As dawn brought the first light to the 10 million residents who endured the hot summer night without power, Mayor Beame told the people who live and work here:

"It will not be possible to operate a normal day. I urge you to stay home until the emergency has been resolved."

Most New Yorkers apparently didn't need to be told to stay home.

Traffic in the city was extremely light as residents and workers apparently heeded Beame's request to stay home. Cabs and buses were operating, although no traffic signals worked. Police directed traffic only at major intersections. At others, drivers uncharacteristically edged through.

Banks, state office buildings and Off Track Betting offices were closed. So were summer schools and gas station pumps.

Water was cut off in many of the city's larger buildings as electric pumps failed.

The subways were useless, most commuter railroads motionless. Wall Street was shut down, the stock market out of business for the duration. Elevators were immobilized.

Beame said there could be no subway or rail service until 2 1/2 hours after power was fully restored. Consolidated Edison officials could not say when that would be.

Window units cooling hospital

CHAFFEE—The use of window-type air conditioners and fans restored operations of Chaffee General Hospital to near normal today, according to Mrs. Pat Perry, assistant administrator for the hospital.

The emergency cooling measures were taken after a Wednesday morning breakdown in the hospital's main air conditioning unit caused temperatures inside the building to climb into the 90s.

With the help of the Chaffee Jaycees and other volunteers, window-type air conditioners loaned to the hospital by residents of Chaffee, Benton, Scott City and Cape Girardeau were installed to comfort the hospital's 38 patients.

Approximately 18 units of the 110-volt, 14-inch wide size, have been loaned to the hospital. Mrs. Perry said the hospital also purchased 20 additional fans to improve air circulation. Four more units of this size could still be used, she added.

The units were installed in the rooms of heart patients first, and in the newborn ward ice was used on an incubator to keep its patient cool.

Mrs. Perry said a repair crew from Tate Plumbing and Heating Co. of Cape

Girardeau was scheduled to start work on the main unit today, and that it would likely be Monday before it would be back in operation.

Lilbourn set to honor Bill Jones

LILBOURN—Bill D. Jones, owner of Jones Family Pharmacy, has been chosen Lilbourn's 1977 Man of the Year by a committee of Kiwanians and volunteer firemen, and he will be honored in a ceremony on the Summer Fun Days mid-way stage at 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

A resident of Lilbourn for almost 23 years following his purchase of Castleberry Drug Store, Jones has been very active in community affairs and was chosen to be honored for his service to the community.

In connection with his profession, Jones is a member of the Missouri Pharmaceutical Association and the Southeast Missouri Pharmaceutical Association, where he is a member of the board of directors. He participates in all seminars and continuing education courses dealing with pharmacy whenever possible to keep up with the latest advances in his profession.

Jones has been a registered scout or scoutmaster for 25 years. He was awarded the Scouters Key in 1968, the Order of Merit in 1969, was inducted into the Order of Arrow in 1971 and received scouting's highest honor, the Silver Beaver Award in 1972. He is chairman of the local finance committee and has also been a member of the C-Club for a number of years.

He is a past president and member of the board of directors of Lilbourn Kiwanis Club, and has served on various committees with perfect club attendance for more than 20 years.

An active member of the Lilbourn First Baptist Church, he is a deacon and has served several times as chairman of deacons. He is presently superintendent of the adult Sunday School department, and has filled many other positions in his church.

He has been commissioner of the Little League and managed a Little League team for two years. He is a York and Scottish Rite Mason and a Shriner, and is past president of the New Madrid County Scottish Rite Club.

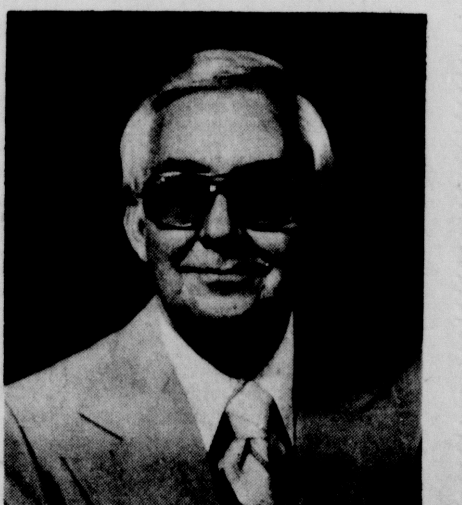

Immediate past president of the New Madrid County Cancer Society, Jones has been active in its fund drives, as well as participating in other fund drives for arthritis, heart, etc.

He is currently a member of the Lilbourn City Council, and has served two prior terms.

For several years he has advance ticket chairman for the annual Fun Days, and is program chairman and master of ceremonies this year.

He is married to the former Joy McCulloch, and they have two sons, Brad, a senior in college, and Stan, a senior at Lilbourn High School.

Saturday has been declared Bill Jones Day in Lilbourn.

Medalist will sign closure agreement

Today Medalist Industry Inc. makes it official: It will close its manufacturing plant on Industrial Drive by the end of the year.

Company and union officials today will sign an agreement which allows the plant to close, according to Ray Volpe, Medalist group vice-president.

Company officials announced their decision to close the plant on Jan. 1, but needed the agreement with the union before the decision became final.

Volpe told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday that before tax losses at the plant were $2.5 million over the last three years.

The plant manufactures grass catchers and cap which have not been profitable. About 100 employees have been working at the plant in recent months, down from a high of 300.

The shoe warehousing operation located at the FederalCompress & Warehouse Co. buildings on West North Street will continue, Volpe said.

"Medalist does not have anything against Sikeston," Volpe told the Lions. "If I had a product line to bring in here, I wouldn't sell the building."

He called the employees in Sikeston an excellent group of people, "as good as those working in any other company plant."

Volpe said the firm will purchase the mortgage on the building so it can have title to the structure. Medalist will then try to sell the building.

Two appraisals have been made on the building to determine its fair market value, Volpe said. He declined to put a value on the building until after he talked with real estate brokers.

Volpe will be talking today with a national real estate marketing from Indiana that has shown aggressiveness in marketing industrial properties.

He said it will probably take at least a year to sell the building.

One possible drawback, not just for Sikeston but for all of Missouri, is energy shortages, he said. The Medalist plant operated on propane gas for six weeks during the winter, he said. Propane fuel can be very expensive, he added.

Car taken, another looted

An automobile was reported stolen and another car was looted, according to the Public Safety Department.

A 1977 silver and red Chevrolet Nova belonging to Ponder Co. Rentals of Charleston was stolen at Sikeston Memorial Airport.

The theft occurred sometime between Sunday night and Wednesday. The car was valued at $4,500.

Christopher Raymond Prasifka, 117 Summer Drive, reported several items taken from his car between midnight

Tuesday and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday while the car was parked at home.

Taken were a citizens band radio valued at $80, a stereo tape player valued at $80, a tape case worth $7 and 20 tapes worth $120.

Sometime over the weekend, Prasifka also reported that someone cut open his pigeon coop, letting loose two homing pigeons. One of the birds was worth $150; the value of the other is unknown. The birds are believed to be returning to their home in Texas.

North Koreans shoot down U.S. Copter

WASHINGTON (AP) - North Korea gunned down an American helicopter today, killed three crewmen, captured another, and rebuffed U.S. demands for an immediate meeting on the tension-raising incident.

President Carter said the craft apparently strayed into Communist territory through navigational error. He said he wants to insure "this does not escalate into a confrontation."

The North Koreans charged the Chinook chopper had made a deep intrusion into their airspace and was armed. American officials said it was carrying construction materials.

Communist representatives failed to show up at the Panmunjom truce village, although they offered to discuss the incident there on Saturday.

Carter told seven senators who came to the White House that the North Koreans first fired a warning shot and the helicopter landed.

He said the Americans then "got out and inspected their helicopter, and then got into the helicopter and took off. After they took off, the North Koreans who were approaching apparently shot the helicopter down."

At Panmunjom, there was no word on the Americans' identity or the disposition of the bodies.

"We asked the North Koreans to meet with us immediately at Panmunjom to discuss the whole incident," Carter told the senators. "We are asking them to expedite this meeting. At this time it's scheduled for Friday our time...We are trying to move it up if we can."

The President said the chopper was on "a routine flight from the west coast of Korea to the east coast in daylight" and that it apparently lost a navigational fix.

"Of course, that's a surmise," the President said.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the helicopter was apparently hit by North Korean gunfire when it crossed the demarcation line. But he said he did not know the sort of weapons used.

"It landed briefly, was inspected by the crew, was evidently approached by North Korean personnel," he said. "The helicopter took off and was shot down."

The spokesman said that while the President used the term "exchange of gunfire" there was "no indication there was an exchange in the sense of American or South Korean fire directed at North Koreans."

He said the helicopter was unarmed but he did not know if the crew members carried weapons.

Powell said the helicopter first took off from a military base at Pyong-Taek, about 35 miles south of Seoul on the Korean west coast.

It headed for Pangnung on the South Korean east coast about 15 or 20 miles south of the DMZ on "a strictly material support or transport mission, supporting the construction of an observation post in mountainous terrain just south of the DMZ," Powell said. He later said the post was being built for the United Nations Command. He also said he had no indication that the helicopter ever picked up its load or landed south of the DMZ after the Pyong-Taek takeoff.

"The aircraft apparently veered north at the eastern end of the DMZ at the Pangnung area," the spokesman told reporters at a news briefing.

He said conflicting reports had been received about the exact location where the helicopter was shot down and he refused to give their range.

He said it was down "at least partially" in a river.

The spokesman said warning shots were fired by the South Koreans just south of the DMZ to alert the Americans they were over

North Korean territory.

The United Nations command in Seoul said the intrusion into North Korean air space was unintentional. It requested immediate return of crew and craft as well as an urgent meeting at Panmunjom.

The North Koreans countered with a proposal that the session be delayed until Saturday. They ignored a U.N. call for a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday (7 a.m. EDT) and did not reply to another proposal that they meet Friday.

While the official North Korean news agency announced the deaths of three of the men aboard, White House spokesman Jody Powell said the fate of all four men was uncertain.

Other U.S. sources said a beeper signal was heard, indicating at least one crewman had survived.

Window units cooling hospital

CHAFFEE-The use of window-type air conditioners and fans restored operations of Chaffee General Hospital to near normal today, according to Mrs. Pat Perry, assistant administrator for the hospital.

The emergency cooling measures were taken after a Wednesday morning breakdown in the hospital's main air conditioning unit caused temperatures inside the building to climb into the 90s.

With the help of the Chaffee Jaycees and other volunteers, window-type air conditioners loaned to the hospital by residents of Chaffee, Benton, Scott City and Cape Girardeau were installed to comfort the hospital's 38 patients.

Approximately 18 units of the 110-volt, 14-inch wide size, have been loaned to the hospital. Mrs. Perry said the hospital also purchased 20 additional fans to improve air circulation. Four more units of this size could still be used, she added.

The units were installed in the rooms of heart patients first, and in the newborn ward ice was used on an incubator to keep its patient cool.

Mrs. Perry said a repair crew from Tate Plumbing and Heating Co. of Cape Girardeau was scheduled to start work on the main unit today, and that it would likely be Monday before it would be back in operation.

Lilbourn set to honor Bill Jones

LILBOURN-Bill D. Jones, owner of Jones Family Pharmacy, has been chosen Lilbourn's 1977 Man of the Year by a committee of Kiwanians and volunteer firemen, and he will be honored in a ceremony on the Summer Fun Days mid-way stage at 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

A resident of Lilbourn for almost 23 years following his purchase of Castleberry Drug Store, Jones has been very active in community affairs and was chosen to be honored for his service to the community.

In connection with his profession, Jones is a member of the Missouri Pharmaceutical Association and the Southeast Missouri Pharmaceutical Association, where he is a member of the board of directors. He participates in all seminars and continuing education courses dealing with pharmacy whenever possible to keep up with the latest advances in his profession.

Jones has been a registered scout or scoutmaster for 25 years. He was awarded the Scouters Key in 1968, the Order of Merit in 1969, was inducted into the Order of Arrow in 1971 and received scouting's highest honor, the Silver Beaver Award in 1972. He is chairman of the local finance committee and has also been a member of the C-Club for a number of years.

He is a past president and member of the board of directors of Lilbourn Kiwanis Club, and has served on various committees with perfect club attendance for more than 20 years.

An active member of the Lilbourn First Baptist Church, he is a deacon and has served several times as chairman of deacons. He is presently superintendent of the adult Sunday School department, and has filled many other positions in his church.

He has been commissioner of the Little League and managed a Little League team for two years. He is a York and Scottish Rite Mason and a Shriner, and is past president of the New Madrid County Scottish Rite Club.

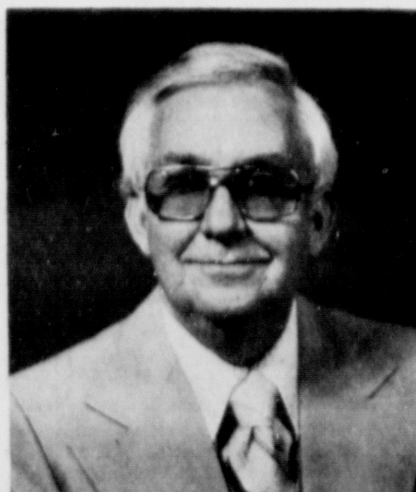

Immediate past president of the New Madrid County Cancer Society, Jones has been active in its fund drives, as well as participating in other fund drives for arthritis, heart, etc.

He is currently a member of the Lilbourn City Council, and has served two prior terms.

For several years he was advance ticket chairman for the annual Fun Days, and is program chairman and master of ceremonies this year.

He is married to the former Joy McCulloch, and they have two sons, Brad, a senior in college, and Stan, a senior at Lilbourn High School.

Saturday has been declared Bill Jones Day in Lilbourn.

SCORE ONE FOR CONSUMERS

It isn't often that a boycott by angry consumers defeats a foreign cartel, so it's a pleasure to note that just that kind of victory is taking place in the coffee trade.

Since the United States is the world's largest coffee market and Americans were thought to be hooked on the stuff, the governments of Brazil, Colombia and a few other producers thought consumers here would pay any price.

After a severe frost in Brazil in 1975 tightened supplies, governments and speculators began manipulating the market and boosting export taxes to drive prices relentlessly higher.

At first the market-rigging worked, enriching exporters as consumers paid more and more. But early this year, as retail prices went through the $4-a-pound barrier, something snapped and many Americans stopped buying.

During the first five months of this year retail coffee sales were 20 per cent lower than the comparable period in 1976 and, lo and behold, the laws of supply and demand have started to do their work.

General Foods Corp., the largest domestic coffee roaster, has cut prices on all its brands by 30 cents a pound. That will lower the wholesale price of Maxwell House coffee, its leading brand, to $3.71 a pound.

In Cincinnati, Folger Coffee Co., the second largest roaster, reduced the wholesale price of its ground coffee 30 cents a pound to $3.68. Folger has cut the wholesale price of its coffee 75 cents since May 12, citing the stiff industry-wide drop in sales.

Some supermarket chains have responded by reducing the retail price of ground coffee below $4 a pound, the first drop in two years. More declines can be expected as lower wholesale prices are reflected on grocery shelves.

In fact, if there is no killing frost in Brazil this July, prices may have peaked for many years. The higher profit in coffee has attracted new countries to the field and caused established growers to expand their plantings.

Thus there should be overproduction in two to three years and downward pressure on prices. Much of the credit will go to consumers who knew when to get fed up. It is a shame they show no signs of being able to cut gasoline use as dramatically and bring OPEC to its knees.

Art Buchwald*THE POP SCULPTOR

WASHINGTON—One day the Canadian authorities refused to allow 80 wooden crates, which looked like cartons of Brillo soap pads, Kellogg's corn flakes, and Mott's apple juice, to go through Customs as works of art. The cartons, painted by American pop artist Andy Warhol, were not, said the Canadians, works of art but merchandise, and subject to $4,000 duty.

I think the Canadians are all wet. A few days after the incident in Canada, I went down to the supermarket to buy some groceries for my wife. On the way home I stopped in at an art gallery where they were holding an art exhibit. Unfortunately, the carton of groceries got heavy and I left it on the floor.

Then, being so moved by what I saw, I left the gallery and went home.

"Where are the groceries?" my wife demanded.

"Oh, my gosh," I cried. "I left them at the art gallery."

"Well, you'd better get them if you want any supper tonight."

I rushed back to the gallery, but I was too late. The groceries had been awarded first prize in the show.

"We've been looking all over for you," the gallery owner said. "Why didn't you sign your work of art?"

"It's not a work of art. It's my dinner for tonight."

The gallery roared with appreciative laughter. "He's not only a great sculptor, but he has humor as well." A JUDGE SAID.

"You can see that in his work," another judge added.

"Notice how the bottle of Heinz catsup is leaning against the can of Campbell's pork and beans."

"I'll never know how he was inspired to put the Ritz crackers on top of the can of Crisco," a lady said to her escort.

"It's pure genius," her escort replied. "Notice the way the Del Monte can of peaches is lying on its side. Even Warhol wouldn't have gone that far."

"I think the think that really won the prize for him was the manner in which he crushed the Sara Lee cheesecake on the bottom of the box."

"It makes Picasso look sick."

"Look," I said, "I'm very grateful for all these honors, but my wife is waiting for this stuff and I have to get it home."

"Get it home?" the gallery owner said in amazement. "I've just sold it to that couple over there for $1,500."

"The groceries cost me only $18," I replied.

"It isn't the groceries. It's what you did with them. You have managed to put more meaning into a box of Rinsol than Rodin put into 'The Thinker.' Nobody will ever be able to look at a can of Franco-American spaghetti without thinking of you. You have said with this bag of groceries, in one evening, what Rembrandt tried to say in 1,000 paintings."

I blushed modestly and accepted his check. That night I took my wife out to dinner, and the next day I went back to the supermarket and bought another bag of groceries, much more expensive than the previous ones, which I immediately took to the gallery.

But the reviews were lousy. "Success has gone to his head," said Washington's leading art critics. "Where once he was able to produce simple jars of cat food and peanut butter in a wild, reckless, I-don't-give-a-damn manner, he is now serving up elegant cans of mushrooms and mock turtle soup. The famous touch is gone and all that is left is a hodgepodge of tasteless groceries."

NO CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION NEEDED

There is a move on to call a Constitutional Convention for Missouri, to revise or replace the present constitution with a new one. It would cost an immense sum, cost even more when voted upon by the people, and in the end there would probably be about as many mistakes in it as there are in the present one. That is the history of the various Constitutional Conventions we have had.

We have a vehicle now for amending the present constitution, wherever change is needed, by a vote of the people on suggested revisions.

That is the most economical and sensible route to follow. Let's amend what we have instead of trying the impossible—creating a new and perfect Constitution.

MAKING THE WORLD SAFE FOR WAR

Everything's a lot cheerier now in Washington. The Jordanians have decided to buy their new air-defense system not from the Soviets, as had been threatened, but from us. The purchase, to the tune of $540,000,000, is to be bankrolled by the Saudi Arabians—after a sort of international poker game in which King Hussein of Jordan kept raising the ante.

The Ford Administration has also just made known its readiness to sell to Saudi Arabia itself a whole new generation of missiles and laser-guided "smart" bombs, over and above the 6 billion dollars in arms which that nation has bought from us since 1975. To take the sting out of the proposition for American supporters of Israel, in and out of Congress, which has 30 days to reject any arms sale of more than $25,000,000, unnamed White House spokesmen have let it be known that these "smart" bombs are not as "smart" as those supplied to Israel.

As a matter of fact, somebody was talking not long since about the whole matter of such American arms sales. "Sometimes," he said, "we try to justify this unsavory business on the cynical ground that by rationing out the means of violence we can somehow control the world's violence." His name was Jimmy Carter. His statement may not be as "smart" as a laser-guided bomb, but it makes far more sense.

Time was when a good many American millionaires were known by name, if not by sight, by the average citizen. There were not that many of them, relatively speaking, and many millionaires frequented the spotlights.

Times have changed. From about 13,000 Americans with a net worth of $1,000,000 or more in 1948, the millionaire ranks have grown to an estimated 240,000 today. Even discounting the deflated value of $1,000,000 today over its worth in 1948, that is some growth. It is particularly interesting in light of the view sometimes expressed by young people and not so young, that opportunities to strike it rich are disappearing. To the contrary, it would seem they are better than ever.

A Woman President

Switzerland may have been the first country to develop a straight arrow like William Tell and such thoroughly good things as Swiss chocolates, Swiss watches, Swiss cheese and Swiss steak. It was one of the first to have a parliament (established in 1294). But it has been slow to get around to women's lib. Women, in fact, did not have the right to vote in federal elections until 1971.

In that year three of their number were elected to parliament, and now, only six years later, one of those three—Mrs. Elizabeth Blunschy, who is 54, a widow, a mother of three and a lawyer—has been elected president of the lower house of the legislature, which happens declared. Relatives remember him as a benevolent prophet, Christ-like in his ministrations.

But Joel's dispensation ended in tragedy after his younger brother, Ervil, began to challenge first his dogma and then his authority. As the dispute deepened, the terrible-tempered Ervil threatened his brother's life.

Joel responded by excommunicating Ervil from the fold. In the eyes of Joel's followers, Ervil was a Judas. He became a Cain and implemented the threat against his brother. In August, 1972, Joel was brutally slain. The Mexican authorities accused Ervil of arranging the murder, which was actually committed by one of Ervil's fanatical disciples.

The brilliant, dynamic Ervil LeBaron demonstrated an ability to fire his followers with such zeal that they would die for him or kill for him. He trained them from childhood not only to handle weapons but to use them in his holy cause.

It was the women, however, who were assigned most of the murder missions. They would be housewives by day and, occasionally, murderers by night. He sent them in December, 1974, on a ghastly Christmas crusade. They bushwacked, burned and shot up the Mexican town of Los Molinos where Joel's followers dwelt. Only two, miraculously, were killed. Another 19 were wounded.

On a ramshackle farm outside Salt Lake City, meanwhile, another brother claims to be his father's true heir. Ross LeBaron leads a church with no members. His only followers are goats, which he raises.

He has the zany, happy look of comedian Red Skelton. Like the martyred Joel, Ross is at peace with the world, a gentle soul awaiting the Second Comto be the most powerful political office in the land. This shows what Swiss women can do—and probably have been doing all along a in a power-behind-the-throne sort of way.

We can detect their good influence in the fact that, at a time when much of the world has reverted to the jungle, Switzerland remains a sane, lovely place of quiet lakes and serene mountains, good people, prosperity, little crime, no wars, and a dab of pollution.

As we see it, Mrs. Blunschy's only problem is that she has no problems. Her country is virtually perfect, so how can she show her stuff? Fortunately, Mrs. Blunschy, like a perfectionist housewife who sees dust where no one else can detect any, appears certain that there will be problems. So we wish her good luck—and good problems.

Making The Seas Safer

The core issue in the long argument over ways to improve the safety record of oil tankers at sea has been whether this country should seek new international agreements or go it alone in setting new standards. President Carter's message to Congress on the subject indicates he has decided to do both. That seems to us to be a wise course, since it will get some badly needed things done quickly and also strengthen the hand of American negotiators in their international dealings on this problem.

ing. That he expects the Messiah to arrive in a flying saucer is dismissed by his neighbors as merely another of his eccentricities. "Ross LeBaron doesn't have a violent bone in his body," a neighbor told our associate Marc Smolonsky.

Yet violence may be his legacy. He stands in the way of Ervil's mad quest to become his father's sole spiritual heir. Already, Ross has received ominous threats from his brother. But he seems oblivious to the danger. As Ross sees it, Ervil will cleanse the kingdom of the wicked and prepare the way for him to take over as the true prophet. Meanwhile, Ross is content to shepherd his goats.

The youngest brother, Verlan LeBaron, has taken over the spot that Joel headed before his violent death. Now Verlan's name, apparently, is at the top of Ervil's execution list. Associates say he is philosophical about the threats from his brother, but he is also secretive about his movements.

He was related by marriage to the late Dr. Rulon Alford, the leader of 1,000 polygamists. The doctor was also threatened by the evil Ervil. Last May, Alford was gunned down by two women who burst into his office and shot him in cold blood.

This leaves two brothers — Alma, Jr., who presides over a small flock in San Diego and Floren, who is trying to start his own religious movement in Nicaragua. Both have been threatened by their bloodthirsty brother.

Ervil, meanwhile, has raised his sights. Sources close to his wild bunch say he intends to conquer the world. As the first step, he reportedly wants to eliminate President Carter and Vice President Mondale.

Copyright 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

It may finally come down to the question of improving the standards for the training and licensing of crews. It is currently estimated that about 80 per cent of tanker accidents are the result of human error. If that is true, it is obvious that improving the quality of officers and crews must have a high priority. All the safety and navigation standards that could be devised will not prevent accidents—or pollution from them—so long as inadequately trained personnel man some ships or crews are worked on such long tours of duty that their efficiency is badly impaired. Yet, raising crew standards is one of the more difficult international questions because the qualification of crews has traditionally been a national matter.

Mr. Carter has told Secretary of Transportation Adams to raise the already high qualification standard for American crews immediately and to announce that this country will participate in an international conference next year to evaluate such standards. Significantly, he has said that Mr. Adams will identify crew requirements that, if not agreed to in that conference, "may be imposed" unilaterally by this country on all ships calling at its ports after 1978. There is a threat implicit in that language, but it is the kind of statement that makes credible this country's intention to diminish drastically oil pollution of the oceans.

The President has taken a similar approach to construction and equipment standards. New regulations are to be issued and made effective over five years concerning the safety and navigational equipment that ships using American ports must have. And he has asked for an international conference late this year to consider these standards and the inspection and enforcement program that must accompany them if they are to be effective. No doubt there will be arguments over whether the regulations go far enough, but the dual approach should be encouraged. It will give other nations an opportunity to participate in formulating new standards—without trying American hands if agreement becomes impossible.

Oilcan Again: The High Cost of the Indestructible Ed Sadlowski

WASHINGTON — Whatever did happen to "Oilcan Eddie" Sadlowski who was such a big man in steel last winter?

Almost literally his name was on the quill-tip of most proletarian culture-mongers across the world. His was a bold venture.

In tandem with Victor Reuther and many American intellectuals, artists, Hollywood hucksters' and regional unionists, he bid for control of the powerful 1.4 million-member United Steelworkers union. And he and his allies are true believers. With "steel" as a base they were certain they could change the course of American labor, politics and the White House.

The 38-year-old Sadlowski lost the Feb. 8 election to Lloyd McBride.

Well, officially not yet.

Today he's costing the federal budget at least $1 million. That's what it's taking for the U.S. Labor Department to investigate the poll because of Sadlowski's official challenge of the results.

And that's only for starters. If for some reason the Labor Department's investigative special branch of elections and trusteeships recommends to the Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall that there be a rerun of the United Steelworkers of America presidential election, it may cost millions more. There are some 5,675 USWA locals.

Few realize how much money the Labor Department has been pouring into such challenges, probes and reruns. In 1972, the Department reran the United Mineworkers of America presidential balloting — and the tab to the taxpayers was over $4.7 million.

Right now there are some 250 "compliance officers" working in teams across the U.S. investigating Sadlowski's charges against McBride. They are directed by coordinators in Buffalo, Boston, Atlanta, New Orleans and Los Angeles, struggling through the wearying process of interviewing witnesses in search of evidence of ballot tampering and official topside pressure. Sadlowski has charged the backers of the winner, Lloyd McBride, who ran more than 79,000 votes ahead, with a long list of political frauds and misconduct.

But the costly government investigation is all a "sham," says Sadlowski's attorney, the perennial Joseph Rauh Jr. who with Vic Reuther found Big Ed in the USW district 31 (Chicago-Gary area) some two years ago and made a bid for leadership of the American labor movement.

What Rauh now actually is demanding is the official questioning under oath of some 18,000 steel union officials — including those in the Canadian locals over which it so happens the U.S. has no jurisdiction. The enormity of it all can be seen in the size of the national steel union's officialdom. It's easy now to understand why there are 500,000 labor leaders and officers in the U.S.

Secretary Marshall scoffs at this demand. He must complete the full steel union election investigation by Aug. 16 (60 days after Sadlowski filed his protest). It would take thousands of federal employees to handle such questioning. And it would stop much of the American government's operation. As it is, some of the 250 field men have been borrowed from the Wage and Hour Administration compliance force.

Who can predict what may happen? With over 5,600 locals and many more polling places involved, the Labor Department's special branch may discover sufficient irregularities to call for some kind of recount. If there is a rerun, there still is no safe prediction. After all some 600,000 steel unionists didn't bother to vote last Feb. 8.

Sادلowski may be out of the world spotlight but he's doing what comes naturally to Big Ed. He's still on the staff of District 31. His allies still have influence in that steel area running east from Chicago to the Indiana dunes. And also in the iron ore area of Minnesota, Upper Michigan and Upper Wisconsin.

Sادلowski and his still gung-ho coalition are beating the drums for unprecedented local strikes in those arenas — on local issues ranging all the way from demands for plant dieticians and bigger parking lots to support for a boycott of Rhodesian chrome.

Actually there hasn't been a legal steel strike since the critical 116-day 1959-60 walkout. Which incidentally was settled by steel union lawyer Arthur Goldberg in the home of then incumbent Vice President of the United States, Dick Nixon.

There isn't much chance of any serious disruption of American life styles if the local strikes are called on Aug. 1. There's lots of steel around. Also lots of iron ore on the docks. Enough to last until Christmas.

And at the moment only some 15 to 20 locals of the 500 covered by the no-strike, no-lockout Experimental Negotiating Agreement between the big 10 steel companies and the union have voted to ask the national USW office for permission to walk out. This is required by the constitution.

In all some 20,000 to 25,000 of the 350,000 basic steel workers would be involved. But they could put a crimp in the no-strike agreement on which the bread of the industry and its workers depends so much.

So Oilcan Eddie and his six-pack of beer is still around. He may be back in the headlines and on the tube one of these days before he can finish the last of his cans. In America, anything can happen. Democracy isn't an easy back pack to carry successfully down, or up, the road.

"You can see that in his work," another judge added. "Notice how the bottle of Heinz catsup is leaning against the can of Campbell's pork and beans."

"I'll never know how he was inspired to put the Ritz crackers on top of the can of Crisco," a lady said to her escort.

"It's pure genius," her escort replied. "Notice the way the Del Monte can of peaches is lying on its side. Even Warhol wouldn't have gone that far."

"I think the think that really won the prize for him was the manner in which he crushed the Sara Lee cheesecake on the bottom of the box."

"It makes Picasso look sick."

"Look," I said, "I'm very grateful for all these honors, but my wife is waiting for this stuff and I have to get it home."

"Get it home?" the gallery owner said in amazement. "I've just sold it to that couple over there for $1,500."

"The groceries cost me only $18," I replied.

"It isn't the groceries. It's what you did with them. You have managed to put more meaning into a box of Rinsol than Rodin put into 'The Thinker.' Nobody will ever be able to look at a can of Franco-American spaghetti without thinking of you. You have said with this bag of groceries, in one evening, what Rembrandt tried to say in 1,000 paintings."

I blushed modestly and accepted his check. That night I took my wife out to dinner, and the next day I went back to the supermarket and bought another bag of groceries, much more expensive than the previous ones, which I immediately took to the gallery.

But the reviews were lousy. "Success has gone to his head," said Washington's leading art critics. "Where once he was able to produce simple jars of cat food and peanut butter in a wild, reckless, I don't give-a-damn manner, he is now serving up elegant cans of mushrooms and mock turtle soup. The famous touch is gone and all that is left is a hodgepodge of tasteless groceries."

NO CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION NEEDED

There is a move on to call a Constitutional Convention for Missouri, to revise or replace the present constitution with a new one. It would cost an immense sum, cost even more when voted upon by the people, and in the end there would probably be about as many mistakes in it as there are in the present one. That is the history of the various Constitutional Conventions we have had.

We have a vehicle now for amending the present constitution, wherever change is needed, by a vote of the people on suggested revisions.

That is the most economical and sensible route to follow. Let's amend what we have instead of trying the impossible—creating a new and perfect Constitution.

MAKING THE WORLD SAFE FOR WAR

Everything's a lot cheerier now in Washington. The Jordanians have decided to buy their new air-defense system not from the Soviets, as had been threatened, but from us. The purchase, to the tune of $540,000, is to be bankrolled by the Saudi Arabians—after a sort of international poker game in which King Hussein of Jordan kept raising the ante.

The Ford Administration has also just made known its readiness to sell to Saudi Arabia itself a whole new generation of missiles and laser-guided "smart" bombs, over and above the 6 billion dollars in arms which that nation has bought from us since 1975. To take the sting out of the proposition for American supporters of Israel, in and out of Congress, which has 30 days to reject any arms sale of more than $25,000,000, unnamed White House spokesmen have let it be known that these "smart" bombs are not as "smart" as those supplied to Israel.

As a matter of fact, somebody was talking not long since about the whole matter of such American arms sales. "Sometimes," he said, "we try to justify this unsavory business on the cynical ground that by rationing out the means of violence we can somehow control the world's violence." His name was Jimmy Carter. His statement may not be as "smart" as a laser-guided bomb, but it makes far more sense.

HORATIO ALGER LIVES

Time was when a good many American millionaires were known by name, if not by sight, by the average citizen. There were not that many of them, relatively speaking, and many millionaires frequented the spotlights.

Times have changed. From about 13,000 Americans with a net worth of $1,000,000 or more in 1948, the millionaire ranks have grown to an estimated 240,000 today. Even discounting the deflated value of $1,000,000 today over its worth in 1948, that is some growth. It is particularly interesting in light of the view sometimes expressed by young people and not so young, that opportunities to strike it rich are disappearing. To the contrary, it would seem they are better than ever.

A Woman President

Switzerland may have been the first country to develop a straight arrow like William Tell and such thoroughly good things as Swiss chocolates, Swiss watches, Swiss cheese and Swiss steak. It was one of the first to have a parliament (established in 1294). But it has been slow to get around to women's lib. Women, in fact, did not have the right to vote in federal elections until 1971.

In that year three of their number were elected to parliament, and now, only six years later, one of those three—Mrs. Elizabeth Blunschy, who is 54, a widow, a mother of three and a lawyer—has been elected president of the lower house of the legislature, which happens to be the most powerful political office in the land. This shows what Swiss women can do—and probably have been doing all along a line a power-behind-the-throne sort of way.

We can detect their good influence in the fact that, at a time when much of the world has reverted to the jungle, Switzerland remains a sane, lovely place of quiet lakes and serene mountains, good people, prosperity, little crime, no wars, and a dab of pollution.

As we see it, Mrs. Blunschy's only problem is that she has no problems. Her country is virtually perfect, so how can she show her stuff? Fortunately, Mrs. Blunschy, like a perfectionist housewife who sees dust where no one else can detect any, appears certain that there will be problems. So we wish her good luck—and good problems.

Making The Seas Safer

The core issue in the long argument over ways to improve the safety record of oil tankers at sea has been whether this country should seek new international agreements or go it alone in setting new standards. President Carter's message to Congress on the subject indicates he has decided to do both. That seems to us to be a wise course, since it will get some badly needed things done quickly and also strengthen the hand of American negotiators in their international dealings on this problem.

declared. Relatives remember him as a benevolent prophet, Christ-like in his ministrations.

But Joel's dispensation ended in tragedy after his younger brother, Ervil, began to challenge first his dogma and then his authority. As the dispute deepened, the terrible-tempered Ervil threatened his brother's life.

Joel responded by excommunicating Ervil from the fold. In the eyes of Joel's followers, Ervil was a Judas. He became a Cain and implemented the threat against his brother. In August, 1972, Joel was brutally slain. The Mexican authorities accused Ervil of arranging the murder, which was actually committed by one of Ervil's fanatical disciples.

The brilliant, dynamic Ervil LeBaron demonstrated an ability to fire his followers with such zeal that they would die for him or kill for him. He trained them from childhood not only to handle weapons but to use them in his holy cause.

It was the women, however, who were assigned most of the murder missions. They would be housewives by day and, occasionally, murderers by night. He sent them in December, 1974, on a ghastly Christmas crusade. They bushwacked, burned and shot up the Mexican town of Los Molinos where Joel's followers dwelt. Only two, miraculously, were killed. Another 19 were wounded.

On a ramshackle farm outside Salt Lake City, meanwhile, another brother claims to be his father's true heir. Ross LeBaron leads a church with no members. His only followers are goats, which he raises.

He has the zany, happy look of comedian Red Skelton. Like the martyred Joel, Ross is at peace with the world, a gentle soul awaiting the Second Coming. That he expects the Messiah to arrive in a flying saucer is dismissed by his neighbors as merely another of his eccentricities. "Ross LeBaron doesn't have a violent bone in his body," a neighbor told our associate Marc Smolonsky.

Yet violence may be his legacy. He stands in the way of Ervil's mad quest to become his father's sole spiritual heir. Already, Ross has received ominous threats from his brother. But he seems oblivious to the danger. As Ross sees it, Ervil will cleanse the kingdom of the wicked and prepare the way for him to take over as the true prophet. Meanwhile, Ross is content to shepherd his goats.

The youngest brother, Verlan LeBaron, has taken over the spot that Joel headed before his violent death. Now Verlan's name, apparently, is at the top of Ervil's execution list. Associates say he is philosophical about the threats from his brother, but he is also secretive about his movements.

He was related by marriage to the late Dr. Rulon Allred, the leader of 1,000 polygamists. The doctor was also threatened by the evil Ervil. Last May, Allred was gunned down by two women who burst into his office and shot him in cold blood.

This leaves two brothers—Alma, Jr., who presides over a small flock in San Diego and Floren, who is trying to start his own religious movement in Nicaragua. Both have been threatened by their bloodthirsty brother.

Ervil, meanwhile, has raised his sights. Sources close to his wild bunch say he intends to conquer the world. As the first step, he reportedly wants to eliminate President Carter and Vice President Mondale.

It may finally come down to the question of improving the standards for the training and licensing of crews. It is currently estimated that about 80 per cent of tanker accidents are the result of human error. If that is true, it is obvious that improving the quality of officers and crews must have a high priority. All the safety and navigation standards that could be devised will not prevent accidents—or pollution from them—so long as inadequately trained personnel man some ships or crews are worked on such long tours of duty that their efficiency is badly impaired. Yet, raising crew standards is one of the more difficult international questions because the qualification of crews has traditionally been a national matter.

Mr. Carter has told Secretary of Transportation Adams to raise the already high qualification standard for American crews immediately and to announce that this country will participate in an international conference next year to evaluate such standards. Significantly, he has said that Mr. Adams will identify crew requirements that, if not agreed to in that conference, "may be imposed" unilaterally by this country on all ships calling at its ports after 1978. There is a threat implicit in that language, but it is the kind of statement that makes credible this country's intention to diminish drastically oil pollution of the oceans.

The President has taken a similar approach to construction and equipment standards. New regulations are to be issued and made effective over five years concerning the safety and navigational equipment that ships using American ports must have. And he has asked for an international conference late this year to consider these standards and the inspection and enforcement program that must accompany them if they are to be effective. No doubt there will be arguments over whether the regulations go far enough, but the dual approach should be encouraged. It will give other nations an opportunity to participate in formulating new standards—without trying American hands if agreement becomes impossible.

"Oilcan Again: The High Cost of the Indestructible Ed Sadlowski"

WASHINGTON — Whatever did happen to "Oilcan Eddie" Sadlowski who was such a big man in steel last winter?

Almost literally his name was on the quill-tip of most proletarian culture-mongers across the world. His was a bold venture.

In tandem with Victor Reuther and many American intellectuals, artists, Hollywood hucksters, and regional unionists, he bid for control of the powerful 1.4 million-member United Steelworkers union. And he and his allies are true believers. With "steel" as a base they were certain they could change the course of American labor, politics and the White House.

The 38-year-old Sadlowski lost the Feb. 8 election to Lloyd McBride.

Well, officially not yet.

Today he's costing the federal budget at least $1 million. That's what it's taking for the U.S. Labor Department to investigate the poll because of Sadlowski's official challenge of the results.

And that's only for starters. If for some reason the Labor Department's investigative special branch of elections and trusteeships recommends to the Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall that there be a rerun of the United Steelworkers of America presidential election, it may cost millions more. There are some 5,675 USWA locals.

Few realize how much money the Labor Department has been pouring into such challenges, probes and reruns. In 1972, the Department reran the United Mineworkers of America presidential balloting — and the tab to the taxpayers was over $47 million.

Right now there are some 250 "compliance officers" working in teams across the U.S. investigating Sadlowski's charges against McBride. They are directed by coordinators in Buffalo, Boston, Atlanta, New Orleans and Los Angeles, struggling through the wearying process of interviewing witnesses in search of evidence of ballot tampering and official topside pressure.

The doctor was also threatened by the evil Ervil. Last May, Allred was gunned down by two women who burst into his office and shot him in cold blood.

This leaves two brothers—Alma, Jr., who presides over a small flock in San Diego and Floren, who is trying to start his own religious movement in Nicaragua. Both have been threatened by their bloodthirsty brother.

Ervil, meanwhile, has raised his sights. Sources close to his wild bunch say he intends to conquer the world. As the first step, he reportedly wants to eliminate President Carter and Vice President Mondale.

seen in the size of the national steel union's officialdom. It's easy now to understand why there are 500,000 labor leaders and officers in the U.S.

Secretary Marshall scoffs at this demand. He must complete the full steel union election investigation by Aug. 16 (60 days after Sadlowski filed his protest). It would take thousands of federal employees to handle such questioning. And it would stop much of the American government's operation. As it is, some of the 250 field men have been borrowed from the Wage and Hour Administration compliance force.

Who can predict what may happen? With over 5,600 locals and many more polling places involved, the Labor Department's special branch may discover sufficient irregularities to call for some kind of recount. If there is a rerun, there still is no safe prediction. After all some 600,000 steel unionists didn't bother to vote last Feb. 8.

Sadlowski may be out of the world spotlight but he's doing what comes naturally to Big Ed. He's still on the staff of District 31. His allies still have influence in that steel area running east from Chicago to the Indiana dunes. And also in the iron ore area of Minnesota, Upper Michigan and Upper Wisconsin.

Sadlowski and his still gung-ho coalition are beating the drums for unprecedented local strikes in those arenas — on local issues ranging all the way from demands for plant dieticians and bigger parking lots to support for a boycott of Rhodesian chrome.

Actually there hasn't been a legal steel strike since the critical 116-day 1959-60 walkout. Which incidentally was settled by steel union lawyer Arthur Goldberg in the home of then incumbent Vice President of the United States, Dick Nixon.

There isn't much chance of any serious disruption of American life styles if the local strikes are called on Aug. 1. There's lots of steel around. Also lots of iron ore on the docks. Enough to last until Christmas.

And at the moment only some 15 to 20 locals of the 500 covered by the no-strike, no-lockout Experimental Negotiating Agreement between the big 10 steel companies and the union have voted to ask the national USW office for permission to walk out. This is required by the constitution.

In all some 20,000 to 25,000 of the 350,000 basic steel workers would be involved. But they could put a crimp in the no-strike agreement on which the bread of the industry and its workers depends so much.

So Oilcan Eddie and his six-pack of beer is still around. He may be back in the headlines and on the tube one of these days before he can finish the last of his cans. In America, anything can happen. Democracy isn't an easy back pack to carry successfully down, or up, the road.

Today's news in brief

Grand jury studies firms

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal grand jury on Wednesday explored relationships between the Progressive Farmers Association, a bankrupt Springfield farm cooperative, and a firm headed by three prominent Missourians.

As it began taking testimony in its investigation, the grand jury heard testimony on Gulf Freeway Associates, Ltd. The firm is a limited partnership composed of Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps of Missouri, state Sen. Paul Bradshaw, R-Springfield, and William A. Ryan, a Springfield real estate broker. The three general partners sold 36 limited partnerships at $10,000 each.

Since 1975, two of those limited partnerships were held by PFA principals.

Gulf Freeway was a limited partnership formed in 1972 to purchase the St. Patrick apartments, a 205-unit complex in Houston, for tax shelter purposes. The apartments were sold late last month.

PFA filed for bankruptcy May 13. Judge Jack C. Jones of federal bankruptcy court said after a creditors' hearing last week that claims against PFA were so large that the claims of some 7,000 investors "won't be worth the price of a 13-cent stamp."

Among those testifying Wednesday were Ryan; Bill Lloyd, a Springfield police detective who has headed an investigation of PFA, and two real estate appraisers whose names appeared on appraisals of Missouri property.

The grand jury is scheduled to hear further testimony today.

Housing subsidies may end

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources say the Carter administration is seriously considering scrapping federal housing subsidy programs and using the money to meet welfare expenses.

A source familiar with the plan says the idea came up during discussions of the welfare reform measure that President Carter has promised to send Congress next month. The source said the plan was tied in with the administration's current inclination to replace welfare with a modified guaranteed annual income of $4,700 a year for a family of four.

The suggestion has sparked a battle within the administration. Also at issue are major portions of the government's policy toward revitalization of the nation's cities.

Many now under poverty line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government figures show that thousands of Americans were pushed below the official poverty level by a strange combination of spiraling inflation and long-term unemployment in 1974.

New Census bureau figures indicate that the number of people the government considers to be poor rose nearly 11 per cent between 1974 and 1975.

In 1974, there were 23,370,000 Americans listed as poor. The 1975 figures showed that more than 2½ million more people were living in poverty.

"These were the years when there were an additional number of people who fell below the poverty line — people who would not normally be poor," said Arno I. Winard, staff assistant for poverty statistics at the Census Bureau.

Death an apparent suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police in northern Virginia are investigating the apparent suicide of the wife of Rep. John Young, D-Tex. The congressman was a key figure in last year's Capitol Hill sex scandal.

Authorities said Jane Young, 55, mother of five children ages 15 to 24, was found shot to death Wednesday night in her suburban Virginia home. Police said the fatal wound appeared to be self-inflicted.

A police spokesman said the cause of death is under investigation, pending a ruling by the county's medical examiner, Dr. Claude Cooper.

Cooper, informed of the death Wednesday night by a reporter, said he planned to examine the body "sometime Thursday."

Jury selection goes slowly

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jury selection moved slowly into its third day today with only six prospective jurors selected in the trial of two men accused of the bomb slaying of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles.

Four persons were seated during Wednesday's session while three others were rejected following questioning by Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson.

Approved during Wednesday's session was a receptionist, a U.S. Post Office employee, a housewife and an office manager for an insurance firm.

All approvals were challenged by Paul Smith, attorney for Phoenix contractor Max Dunlap, 46, and by David Derickson, attorney for Chandler plumber James Robison, 55.

Dunlap is accused of hiring Robison and John Adamson, 33, to kill Bolles. The newspaper reporter died of injuries suffered when a bomb exploded under his car at a mid-town hotel parking lot.

Adamson agreed to testify against Robison and Dunlap after pleading guilty to second degree murder charges in January.

Defense attorneys made the most strenuous objections to the approval of the receptionist, who said she worked for an insurance firm where two men who are possible witnesses in the murder case are employed.

She said she would prefer not to sit as a juror in the case, saying she is nervous and did not want the responsibility to decide the case.

Marchers show their unity

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gay rights activists brought a show of unity to singer Anita Bryant's doorstep last night, as they marched 20 blocks through downtown Kansas City streets to rally outside a hotel where Miss Bryant was performing.

Under close wraps throughout the night, Miss Bryant gave a concert at a downtown Kansas City hotel even as some 1,000 gay activists marched outside and chanted "Gays have rights too," and "Two, four, six, eight...we don't overpopulate."

Claiming that Miss Bryant's actions have unified their efforts and brought them out of the closet, the activists rallied south of mid-town Kansas City to begin their "walk for human rights."

Miss Bryant recently led a successful campaign in Dade County, Fla., to repeal an ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals. Since she began her campaign, she has been the object of criticism from many groups including gay rights organizations.

The Kansas City march was led by a three-week-old group calling itself the Christopher Street Association, named after a street in New York City known to be a gathering place for homosexuals.

Miss Bryant was in Kansas City to appear at a concert sponsored by the Christian Audio Visual Corporation at the Radisson Muehlebach Hotel, and to tape a religious television show.

The demonstration went off without incident, police said, although midtown traffic was snarled briefly as curious passersby stopped to watch the proceedings.

Christopher Street spokeswoman Lea Hopkins told the demonstrators that Miss Bryant's recent Florida campaign has done much to help unify gays across the country. Miss Bryant's being in Kansas City, Miss Hopkins added, will do much to solidify the gay community here.

"I'm here to say 'thank you,'" Miss Hopkins said, as the assemblage cheered and laughed, "for the fantastic, total media coverage, she (Bryant) has afforded us."

"We could not have done it without her."

Today's news in brief

Grand jury studies firms

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal grand jury on Wednesday explored relationships between the Progressive Farmers Association, a bankrupt Springfield farm cooperative, and a firm headed by three prominent Missourians.

As it began taking testimony in its investigation, the grand jury heard testimony on Gulf Freeway Associates, Ltd. The firm is a limited partnership composed of Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps of Missouri, state Sen. Paul Bradshaw, R-Springfield, and William A. Ryan, a Springfield real estate broker. The three general partners sold 38 limited partnerships at $10,000 each.

Since 1975, two of those limited partnerships were held by PFA principals.

Gulf Freeway was a limited partnership formed in 1972 to purchase the St. Patrick apartments, a 205-unit complex in Houston, for tax shelter purposes. The apartments were sold late last month.

PFA filed for bankruptcy May 13. Judge Jack C. Jones of federal bankruptcy court said after a creditors' hearing last week that claims against PFA were so large that the claims of some 7,000 investors "won't be worth the price of a 13-cent stamp."

Among those testifying Wednesday were Ryan; Bill Lloyd, a Springfield police detective who has headed an investigation of PFA, and two real estate appraisers whose names appeared on appraisals of Missouri property.

The grand jury is scheduled to hear further testimony today.

Housing subsidies may end

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources say the Carter administration is seriously considering scrapping federal housing subsidy programs and using the money to meet welfare expenses.

A source familiar with the plan says the idea came up during discussions of the welfare reform measure that President Carter has promised to send Congress next month. The source said the plan was tied in with the administration's current inclination to replace welfare with a modified guaranteed annual income of $4,700 a year for a family of four.

The suggestion has sparked a battle within the administration. Also at issue are major portions of the government's policy toward revitalization of the nation's cities.

Many now under poverty line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government figures show that thousands of Americans were pushed below the official poverty level by a strange combination of spiraling inflation and long-term unemployment in 1974.

New Census Bureau figures indicate that the number of people the government considers to be poor rose nearly 11 per cent between 1974 and 1975.

In 1974, there were 23,370,000 Americans listed as poor. The 1975 figures showed that more than 2½ million more people were living in poverty.

"These were the years when there were an additional number of people who fell below the poverty line — people who would not normally be poor," said Arno I. Winard, staff assistant for poverty statistics at the Census Bureau.

Death an apparent suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police in northern Virginia are investigating the apparent suicide of the wife of Rep. John Young, D-Tex. The congressman was a key figure in last year's Capitol Hill sex scandal.

Authorities said Jane Young, 55, mother of five children ages 15 to 24, was found shot to death Wednesday night in her suburban Virginia home. Police said the fatal wound appeared to be self-inflicted.

A police spokesman said the cause of death is under investigation, pending a ruling by the county's medical examiner, Dr. Claude Cooper.

Cooper, informed of the death Wednesday night by a reporter, said he planned to examine the body "sometime Thursday."

Jury selection goes slowly

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jury selection moved slowly into its third day today with only six prospective jurors selected in the trial of two men accused of the bomb slaying of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles.

Four persons were seated during Wednesday's session while three others were rejected following questioning by Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson.

Approved during Wednesday's session was a receptionist, a U.S. Post Office employee, a housewife and an office manager for an insurance firm.

All approvals were challenged by Paul Smith, attorney for Phoenix contractor Max Dunlap, 48, and by David Derickson, attorney for Chandler plumber James Robison, 55.

Dunlap is accused of hiring Robison and John Adamson, 33, to kill Bolles. The newspaper reporter died of injuries suffered when a bomb exploded under his car at a mid-town hotel parking lot.

Adamson agreed to testify against Robison and Dunlap after pleading guilty to second degree murder charges in January.

Defense attorneys made the most strenuous objections to the approval of the receptionist, who said she worked for an insurance firm where two men who are possible witnesses in the murder case are employed.

She said she would prefer not to sit as a juror in the case, saying she is nervous and did not want the responsibility to decide the case.

Marchers show their unity

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gay rights activists brought a show of unity to singer Anita Bryant's doorstep last night, as they marched 20 blocks through downtown Kansas City streets to rally outside a hotel where Miss Bryant was performing.

Under close wraps throughout the night, Miss Bryant gave a concert at a downtown Kansas City hotel even as some 1,000 gay activists marched outside and chanted "Gays have rights too," and "Two, four, six, eight... we don't overpopulate."

Claiming that Miss Bryant's actions have unified their efforts and brought them out of the closet, the activists rallied south of mid-town Kansas City to begin their "walk for human rights."

Miss Bryant recently led a successful campaign in Dade County, Fla., to repeal an ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals. Since she began her campaign, she has been the object of criticism from many groups including gay rights organizations.

The Kansas City march was led by a three-week-old group calling itself the Christopher Street Association, named after a street in New York City known to be a gathering place for homosexuals.

Miss Bryant was in Kansas City to appear at a concert sponsored by the Christian Audio Visual Corporation at the Radisson Muehlebach Hotel, and to tape a religious television show.

The demonstration went off without incident, police said, although midtown traffic was snarled briefly as curious passersby stopped to watch the proceedings.

Christopher Street spokeswoman Lea Hopkins told the demonstrators that Miss Bryant's recent Florida campaign has done much to help unify gays across the country. Miss Bryant's being in Kansas City, Miss Hopkins added, will do much to solidify the gay community here.

"I'm here to say 'thank you,'" Miss Hopkins said, as the assemblage cheered and laughed, "for the fantastic, total media coverage, she (Bryant) has afforded us."

"We could not have done it without her."

CIRCUIT COURT

NEW MADRID—Jimmy Slayton of Point Pleasant pleaded guilty Wednesday in New Madrid County Circuit Court to burglary and larceny charges. He was granted probation without supervision after Judge William L. Ragland assessed two-year terms in custody of the Department of Corrections on each charge, with the terms to run consecutively. Slayton was charged with burglarizing the Ruby Stewart Store in Point Pleasant Jan. 8 and the theft of whisky and cigarettes valued at $200.

Mike Lynn Frazier of New Madrid, who pleaded guilty to possession of less than 35 grams of marijuana on Feb. 24 was assessed a one-year jail sentence and $100 fine, which were stayed during good behavior and upon payment of costs.

Civil case

In a suit for damages filed by Debbie Caxton and Vivian C. Caxton against Juanita McCutty, which was tried before a jury on July 6, the jury found the issues in favor of the defendant and against the plaintiffs. The Caxtons had sought damages for personal injuries to Debbie Caxton who claimed her leg and feet were injured when she was struck by a car driven by the defendant on July 29, 1976 at Clark's Drive inn in Caruthersville. The case had been transferred to New Madrid County from Pemiscot County on a change of venue.

TV, CB radio among Fall Festival prizes

ORAN-The Chamber of Commerce here has announced that it will give away a color TV., a 40 channel CB., and a solid state digital wristwatch at this year's Fall Festival. There will also be several door prizes given away throughout the entire two-day festival, which is scheduled for August 19-20.

The schedule of events includes, an auction both evenings at 7, a little Mr. and Miss Contest at 6:30 p.m. Friday and the Miss Oran Queen Contest at 7:30 p.m. with the evening topped off by a country music show starring Billy Newman and the Hosey Family from the Essex Country Music Theatre.

Saturday morning festivities begin at 10:30 with a parade through town. There will be various games and races for the children all afternoon as well as some special programming for all ages. The talent contest begins at 5 p.m. and all interested acts should contact Leroy Eftink at 601 Church St. or call 262-3715 before August 16. A professional fashion show displaying the latest styles for fall will be at 7:30 p.m. and a teen street dance will be held from 9 to midnight.

The entire festival will feature food, games, and prizes provided by the different clubs and organizations in town. The Oran Fall Festival is an annual event sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce and is in its fifth year.

MSTA events being planned

The Missouri State Teachers Association, southeast area, has planned a membership rally for Aug. 25 at Cape Girardeau. Other events planned by the group include a mini leadership workshop Sept. 1 at Dexter, operation eyeball meetings in September and a series of legislative training sessions.

Legislative training sessions are scheduled for Nov. 29 at Ellington, Nov. 30 at Portageville and Dec. 1 at Perryville. A Southeast District Teachers Convention is also planned for March 9-10 in Cape Girardeau.

The Missouri State Teachers Association, established in 1856, serves more than 44,000 members throughout the state from its headquarters in Columbia. Field service coordinators, working out of Kansas City, St. Louis, Springfield and Dexter, serve their respective areas. Schools in Southeast Missouri employ more than 6,000 MSTA members, both teachers and administrators, who are served by the Dexter office.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Westphal, the crack guard of the Phoenix Suns of the NBA, shoots with either hand when in range of the basket. He developed that rare ability playing one-on-one against his older brother, Bill, in the family backyard.

"Bill was bigger than I and I couldn't score much against him," Paul recalled. "He would overplay me to my strong side and half the time I couldn't get a shot off."

Judge's skill leaves few grounds for trial's appeal

DETROIT (AP) — Defense attorneys for two nurses found guilty of poisoning hospital patients are trying to overturn the convictions but say they see few grounds for appeal.

"It was a bright and intelligent judge and he didn't make many mistakes," said defense attorney Thomas O'Brien.

The nurses, meanwhile, said they were shocked by the verdicts and disillusioned with the U.S. justice system. The two women were convicted Wednesday on charges of poisoning patients with a muscle-relaxing drug at a veterans hospital where more than 50 persons suffered breathing failures during a two-month period in the summer of 1975.

Attorneys for Filipina Narciso and Leonora Perez planned to meet today with U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt and federal prosecutors to discuss defense motions for a mistrial and a directed verdict of acquittal.

Miss Narciso, 31, of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Perez, 33, of Ann Arbor, were convicted on three counts apiece of poisoning patients at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration hospital.

They also were found guilty of conspiracy. Miss Narciso was found innocent on one count of murder and one count of poisoning.

The nurses, free on an extension of their $75,000 bond, face possible life imprisonment.

"All of my faith is gone," Mrs. Perez said after the trial.

"I know I did not get a fair trial... I know there was no evidence to convict us."

Miss Narciso added, "I have never been so shocked in my life as by what happened today. I had no thoughts of being convicted before today."

The prosecution contended the two women put the drug Pavulon into intravenous feeding devices, causing the victims to stop breathing.

More than 50 breathing failures were reported at the hospital in July and August, 1975. Several of the victims died, but it was never clear how many of the deaths were traced to the drug.

Prosecutors refused to say if they believed the two nurses were responsible for breathing failures not included in the indictments. But, said Asst. U.S. Atty Richard Yanko, there were "similarities and uniqueness" about all the respiratory arrests.

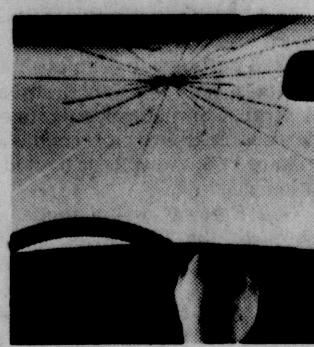

"One could conclude that all those events were perpetrated by the same individual or individuals," he added.

The jury of nine women and three men deliberated for nearly 94 hours over 15 days before returning the verdict.

"My conscience is clear," said one of the jurors, Clara Cyplyk of Detroit. "We all (the jurors) feel that was the right decision."

She said the decision was based on the "weight of real evidence against the two. The prosecution's case satisfied us."

"If we had come out with a verdict after two days, there might be reason to question it, but we looked at everything calmly and logically for two weeks and there's no way we came to the wrong decision."

TV, CB radio among Fall Festival prizes

ORAN-The Chamber of Commerce here has announced that it will give away a color TV, a 40 channel CB, and a solid state digital wristwatch at this year's Fall Festival. There will also be several door prizes given away throughout the entire two-day festival, which is scheduled for August 19-20.

The schedule of events includes, an auction both evenings at 7, a little Mr. and Miss Contest at 6:30 p.m. Friday and the Miss Oran Queen Contest at 7:30 p.m. with the evening topped off by a country music show starring Billy Newman and the Hosey Family from the Essex Country Music Theatre.

Saturday morning festivities begin at 10:30 with a parade through town. There will be various games and races for the children all afternoon as well as some special programming for all ages. The talent contest begins at 5 p.m. and all interested acts should contact Leroy Eltink at 601 Church St. or call 262-3715 before August 16. A professional fashion show displaying the latest styles for fall will be at 7:30 p.m. and a teen street dance will be held from 9 to midnight.

The entire festival will feature food, games, and prizes provided by the different clubs and organizations in town. The Oran Fall Festival is an annual event sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce and is in its fifth year.

Fund game planned

The Twelfth Annual ACBL-Wide Olympiad Fund Game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday at Security Federal Savings & Loan Building located on South Main Street. Entry fee is $3 per player. Those who decide to play will be sharing hands identical with those being played at approximately 300 Olympiad Fund Game sites throughout North America, and at the Summer Nationals in Chicago.

ACBL Continent-wide games are the world's largest bridge tournaments. Liberal Masterpoint Awards are given for the best scores in each local game. Prizes are awarded for the two scores continent-wide and for the best two scores in each of the 25 districts.

Receipts of games in the United States are used for expenses of players representing the nation in world-wide Olympiad competition. Receipts of games held in Canada, Bermuda, and Mexico are used for expenses of players representing those countries in Olympiad competition.

For more information contact Dave Morris, 471-1832.

MSTA events being planned

The Missouri State Teachers Association, southeast area, has planned a membership rally for Aug. 25 at Cape Girardeau. Other events planned by the group include a mini leadership workshop Sept. 1 at Dexter, operation eyeball meetings in September and a series of legislative training sessions. Legislative training sessions are scheduled for Nov. 29 at Ellington, Nov. 30 at Portageville and Dec. 1 at Perryville. A Southeast District Teachers Convention is also planned for March 9-10 in Cape Girardeau.

The Missouri State Teachers Association, established in 1856, serves more than 44,000 members throughout the state from its headquarters in Columbia. Field service coordinators, working out of Kansas City, St. Louis, Springfield and Dexter, serve their respective areas. Schools in Southeast Missouri employ more than 6,000 MSTa members, both teachers and administrators, who are served by the Dexter office.

Judge's skill leaves few grounds for trial's appeal

DETROIT (AP) — Defense attorneys for two nurses found guilty of poisoning hospital patients are trying to overturn the convictions but say they see few grounds for appeal.

"It was a bright and intelligent judge and he didn't make many mistakes," said defense attorney Thomas O'Brien.

The nurses, meanwhile, said they were shocked by the verdicts and disillusioned with the U.S. justice system. The two women were convicted Wednesday on charges of poisoning patients with a muscle-relaxing drug at a veterans hospital where more than 50 persons suffered breathing failures during a two-month period in the summer of 1975.

Attorneys for Filipina Narciso and Leonora Perez planned to meet today with U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt and federal prosecutors to discuss defense motions for a mistrial and a directed verdict of acquittal.

Miss Narciso, 31, of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Perez, 33, of Ann Arbor, were convicted on three counts apiece of poisoning patients at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration hospital. They also were found guilty of conspiracy. Miss Narciso was found innocent on one count of murder and one count of poisoning.

The nurses, free on an extension of their $75,000 bond, face possible life imprisonment.

"All of my faith is gone," Mrs. Perez said after the trial.

"I know I did not get a fair trial... I know there was no evidence to convict us."

Miss Narciso added, "I have never been so shocked in my life as by what happened today. I had no thoughts of being convicted before today."

The prosecution contended the two women put the drug Pavulon into intravenous feeding devices, causing the victims to stop breathing.

More than 50 breathing failures were reported at the hospital in July and August, 1975. Several of the victims died, but it was never clear how many of the deaths were traced to the drug.

Prosecutors refused to say if they believed the two nurses were responsible for breathing failures not included in the indictments. But, said Asst. U.S. Atty Richard Yanko, there were "similarities and uniqueness" about all the respiratory arrests.

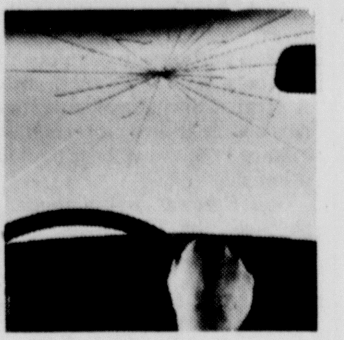

"One could conclude that all those events were perpetrated by the same individual or individuals," he added.

The jury of nine women and three men deliberated for nearly 94 hours over 15 days before returning the verdict.

"My conscience is clear," said one of the jurors, Clara Cyplik of Detroit. "We all (the jurors) feel that was the right decision."

She said the decision was based on the "weight of real evidence against the two. The prosecution's case satisfied us."

"If we had come out with a verdict after two days, there might be reason to question it, but we looked at everything calmly and logically for two weeks and there's no way we came to the wrong decision."

Erma serves husband the 'I don't care' dinner

"AT WIT'S END"
BY ERMA BOMBECK

I am absolutely paranoid about the commercial where the interviewer stops a housewife in a supermarket and asks if her husband would prefer potatoes or dressing with his dinner.

You know the one I mean. It's where the wife smiles and says, "Potatoes. My husband would definitely prefer potatoes." They place a call to her husband and this turkey says, "Dressing. Definitely. I would prefer dressing."

When the interviewer presses for an answer on why they never have dressing, he spits out the grabber, "She never asks me."

I don't know of a woman alive who has not begged her husband for suggestion for dinner. I don't know of a man alive who hasn't consistently ordered, "I don't care."

"Would you like beef stew this week?"

"I don't care."

"We haven't had stroganoff in awhile. How about that?"

"I don't care."

"On second thought I think I'll have yak breasts with goose liver sauce."

"I don't care."

Dear Ann Landers

The 'myths and realities' of welfare

Dear Ann Landers: You've had a lot of flak in your column from people who think everybody on welfare is trying to rip off the hard-working taxpayers. I read something last Sunday that gave a different set of facts.

It is the combined findings of 18 major private social service agencies in New York City. It is called "Myths and Realities of Welfare in New York." I hope you will print it.

I am a Brooklyn reader, physically handicapped, and I can't tell you how pleased I was to read this. Please share it with the world.

"The maximum monthly welfare grant in New York City for a family of four, not including rent allowance, is $258, or about $15 per week for each family member's basic necessities -- a survey of welfare mothers in New York City in 1974 found that 56 per cent were spending less for food than the cost of a nutritionally adequate diet; 86 per cent of the families reported running out of food at the end of most check periods; and 41 per cent said that their families experienced varying degrees of hunger at all times. . . More than 60 per cent of the welfare clients in New York City are children under the age of 18 who do not enjoy the advantages afforded their peers in working families.

"The popular misconception that all welfare recipients are lazy is widespread.

"Says the report: 'Only 3 per cent of people receiving welfare are able to hold a job. Most clients are young children, mothers who try to care for them, and people with severe health problems. Some able-bodied adults who receive welfare are on the relief rolls because they can't find jobs for which they were trained. What's more, their education has been so poor they are semi-literate.'" -- N.Y. Reader

Dear N.Y.R.: I'm sure your letter will anger a great many people who enjoy believing everyone on welfare is lazy or crooked, but the facts are correct and I am happy to print them.

Dear Ann: I know I'm out of season but please help me anyway.

I am one of those "lucky" ones who was born on December 25th, Christmas Day. I feel honored, but I also feel cheated.

My friends and family always combine my Christmas present with my birthday present. If I receive anything for my birthday, it's usually a card.

Those with whom I exchange gifts receive TWO from me.

Question: Would it be OK if I sent these people a card on their birthdays and a gift at Christmas? Thank you -- from all the Christmas babies. -- Twin One

Dear Two: Yes, it would be perfectly OK. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: What you think of three grown children with families who ask their mother (a working woman in her 50s) to spend her three-week vacation every year acting as a live-in maid for their children so they can have a "carefree" vacation

Grandma is a sweet person and hates to say no. So she has been shamelessly abused for the last four years. Any comment? I'd love to hear what you have to say. -- Seething On The Sidelines

Dear Seething: You must be a new reader. Landers' Law of Exploitation goes like this:

In order for a person to be abused two elements must be present: An inconsiderate clod (the abuser) and a person who will allow himself to be taken advantage of. Unless both elements are present, exploitation is impossible.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism -- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Luzinski gives 'Bull Ring' fans their money's worth Portageville suffers first loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A lot of times you hear major league ball players say they'd rather go fishing than play in the All-Star Game. Not Greg Luzinski. He considers it as recognition of his great baseball talents.

Luzinski makes no bones about his feelings.

"I'm proud to go to the All-Star game," says the 225-pound Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder.

But then, Luzinski would be proud to play in a sandlot game on an off day. That's how much baseball means to the 26-year-old from the sandlots of Chicago.

And after he smashed two Titanic home runs good for five

RBI in a 5-2 win over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night, Luzinski expressed what it meant to him to have received the highest number of votes among outfielders for this year's National League team.

"When I think I finished number one among all those great outfielders it means that a lot of people, not only in Philadelphia, but all over the country voted for me. I guess I'm recognized as a pretty good ball player."

That's a big statement for the modest Luzinski, a low key guy who speaks demonstratively only with his bat.

Luzinski is having a banner year. He's hitting .320, with 18 home runs and 61 RBI. He has been particularly effective against St. Louis — .375, 5 homers, 16 RBI.

The Bull, as Luzinski is known, slammed his first home run Wednesday night with two out in the first inning and Gary Maddox on base via a single. The ball landed about 450 feet away in "The Bull Ring," a section in which Luzinski hosted 120 youngsters from the Big Brothers Association.

Luzinski purchased 4,000 seats for $20,000 and entertains different groups of youngsters during the season.

And the Bull donates $100 to the organization in the seats any night a home run lands up there in the fifth level of left-center field. The homer cost him a hundred.

Both homers came off Cardinals' lefthander Tommy Underwood, traded by the Phils to St. Louis last June 15 for outfielder Bake McBride.

Underwood commented, "Luzinski is the best two out hitter in baseball. He never misses a down and in pitch. I'm not the first guy he's going to hit home runs off and certainly not the last. I made two bad pitches and I paid for it."

"It was worth it," he observed after the game.

Luzinski's second homer traveled even further up in that fifth deck, to the right of the Bull Ring.

While Luzinski took care of the offense, Steve Carlton and reliever Tug McGraw handled the pitching. Carlton went seven innings, gave up two runs, struckout 11, and allowed just six hits. He left for a pinch-hitter when his back stiffened after the seventh. McGraw finished, allowing only one harmless hit.

It was the 12th win against four losses for Carlton, who is slated to pitch again Sunday, against the Chicago Cubs. Phillies' manager Danny Ozark says there is no concern about the back.

St. Louis scored its two runs in the seventh when Tony Scott, Ken Reitz and Mike Tyson singled in succession to load the bases with, none out. Pinch-hitter Hector Cruz then grounded a ball that went between the legs of third baseman Rich Hebner and two runs scored.

Vangilder allows two hits, gets two

Debbie Vangilder pitched a two-hitter for First National to lead her team past Mid-Delta Insurance 11-1 Wednesday night in the Major Division of the Sikeston Womens and Girls Softball Association.

In the other Major Division game, Kiwanis clubbed Sikeston IGA 20-6. Sikeston Motors beat Terry's 66 13-8 and the Jaycees downed KSIM 16-14 in Minor Division play. First National toppled Kroger 14-7 in the Senior Division.

Vangilder limited the opposition to a single run in the second inning and clubbed out a single and a double at the plate as First National gained the victory. Wellman, Brown, Carnell and Sherman added two hits each to the First National attack as they pounded out 11 hits in all. A six-run fifth inning ended the game via the ten-run rule.

Kiwanis scored in each inning, including eight in the fourth, as they trampled Sikeston IGA. McGill was the only player to hit safely twice for the winners, who had seven baseknocks in all.

Terry's 66 outhit Sikeston Motors 8-4, but couldn't put theirs together as they lost 13-8. Sikeston Motors spread their scoring out, tallying in every inning but the fourth as they made a winner out of Dorris. Robison's three hits came in a losing cause for Terry's 66.

The Jaycees blasted 21 hits against KSIM, but the final score was a close 16-14 count. The winners did most of their damage in the third, scoring ten big runs and taking a 10-5 lead. They led 16-11 at one point, but a KSIM rally in the seventh made the final score closer. Campbell, Eddleman, Heisler and Eaves each had a trio of safeties for the Jaycees.

Last inning big one in Jr. Ruth

Last-inning rallies played important parts in both of last night's Junior Babe Ruth League games at the Sikeston Sports Complex. Davis and Bird and the Eagles came out on top in the two contests.

Davis & Bird hit Hart's Bread with a five-run fifth that brought them from a 5-4 deficit to a 9-5 victory. The winner's trailed 5-4 at one point, but got three in the third and one in the fourth before the fifth-inning outburst. D & B did their damage with the aid of only three hits. Noel had two of them, helping Dennis grab the ball before crashing into a light pole and falling unconscious to the ground. Buchanan circled the bases as the ball lay on the grass, tying the score. The Elks scored three more in the third, added a single run in the fourth and two in the fifth as they knocked the Portageville club from the undefeated ranks.

Brewer was not seriously injured and returned to the lineup later in the game.

Buchanan and Scott Scherer had two hits apiece for the Elks, who had eight in all. Smith went 3-for-3 at the plate for Portageville.

Jim Moore forfeited to Garner Real Estate in the second game.

Big inning helps Kiwanis, Lewis

The big inning sparked both Kiwanis and Lewis Furniture to wins last night in the National League of the Sikeston Little League. The first was won by Kiwanis 8-4 over Lions. Five big runs in the fourth insured Kiwanis of the win.

In the second game of action, Lewis Furniture pulled the game out of the fire to beat a fine Legion team 10-6. Lewis was trailing 4-3 as they batted in the sixth and final inning. They then rallied for seven runs that proved too much for Legion to overcome. Legion outhit Lewis 4-3 but starter Robert Merrell and winner David Ervin kept Legion from getting the big inning started. Vince Howard was the losing hurler for the Legionnaires.

Bank of Sikeston continued a fine week of play as they jumped on Malone and Hyde 12-8. The key to the win for Bank of Sikeston was the fine relief work of Joy McMillen and a six run first inning. Both of these assets spelled defeat for M & H. Charles Sanders was the loser as Joy put the win in her column.

The second game was yet another Musial League squeaker as the Sikeston Standard held on to ease past Hart's Bread 9-8. Hart's made it a close one by scoring twice in the top of the sixth to fall just one short of a tie. Jeff Coffey, who has been pitching well as of late, came on in relief of Carl Hector and got the win for the Standard. Jeff Lester suffered the loss for Hart's.

Moore, Riley and Decker win big

Earl Moore, Jim Riley and Jim Decker were the big winners Saturday night at Sikeston Speedy. A big crowd watched 38 cars compete for the prize money in the late model, street stock and B modified classes.

Moore, who won the second preliminary heat in the late model class, drove his 1973 Camaro to victory in the feature. The Rombaur, Mo. resident edged Roy Yandell of Corning, Ark. for the top spot. Kenny Faulkner won the first heat.

Riley could only finish second in the second preliminary heat, but won in the B modified class feature race. Riley, who is from Royalton, Ill. beat Gary Beattie of West Frankfort, Ill. Beattie won the first heat, while Gary Easton of Murphysboro, Ill. claimed the second.

Nine cars turned out for the new street stock class, and Jim Decker was the winner in both heats. The Sikestonian beat Bill Wyatt of Bertrand in the first heat and Mike Copas of Chaffee in the second. Decker drove a 1968 Chevrolet wagon.

Portageville suffers first loss

There have been times when an outfielder has blamed the poor lights at VFW Stadium for a dropped fly ball, and rightly so. But now, Portageville's Brewer can say that he dropped a fly because of the light pole.

Brad Buchanan of the Elks was given credit for an inside-the-park home run that tied the game after a bizarre play in the second inning last night. The Elks went on to hand Portageville their first loss of the season, an 8-4 setback.

With Portageville leading 2-1, Buchanan ripped a drive to left that sent Brewer all the way back to the fence, more than 330 feet away from the plate. Brewer made a spectacular grab of the ball before crashing into a light pole and falling unconscious to the ground. Buchanan circled the bases as the ball lay on the grass, tying the score. The Elks scored three more in the third, added a single run in the fourth and two in the fifth as they knocked the Portageville club from the undefeated ranks.

Brewer was not seriously injured and returned to the lineup later in the game.

Buchanan and Scott Scherer had two hits apiece for the Elks, who had eight in all. Smith went 3-for-3 at the plate for Portageville.

D & B did their damage with the aid of only three hits. Noel had two of them, helping Dennis Frazier get the pitching victory. Frazier held Hart's to only one hit.

The Eagles secured their 7-2 victory over Nowell Realty with a four-run rally in the seventh. The Eagles held a 3-2 lead after the first and were up 4-2 by the third, but the big seventh inning helped them put the game away. Randy Bohannon and Stephen Rice teamed for a five-hitter to stop Nowell, while Rice, Mike Bingham and Danny Smith bashed out two hits apiece, accounting for all of the Eagles hitting.

Big inning helps Kiwanis, Lewis

The big inning sparked both Kiwanis and Lewis Furniture to wins last night in the National League of the Sikeston Little League. The first was won by Kiwanis 8-4 over Lions. Five big runs in the fourth insured Kiwanis of the win.

Bernie school board okays pay equalization

BERNIE—Bernie School board meeting was equalization of extra pay duty for teachers.

At the June meeting of the board, board members Dean Crow, Charlie Jennings, Gabe Pointer, G. E. Pulliam, Shirley Crow Stephen, and Steve Smee had authorized the superintendent to meet with the building principals to work out "inequities" in the present extra duty pay structure.

Bernie high school principal Don Lee and elementary school principal Loy Slinkard were at the meeting to present recommendations which emerged from a meeting July 7 between Supt. Elmer "Doc" Dunn, Slinkard and Lee.

After listening to the recommendations, board members voted to approve the recommendations and to incorporate them into the board policy manual when it comes up for annual review at the August meeting.

One of the chief recommendations was that all teachers who work during the summer when school is not in session will be paid according to the findings of a survey that will be conducted among other schools in the area. Any changes based on these survey results will not take effect until the 1978-79 school budget year.

Other recommendations approved Monday night provide that high school volleyball, softball and baseball coaches each be paid $700 for their coaching duties. "We've been discriminating against the lady (volleyball) coach," Dunn said. The revision will "equalize" the three sports in terms of the pay and extra time involved, Dunn said.

In another recommendation, it was approved that the high school counselor work one week before school opens, rather than a week before and another week after school closes, with the high school counselor's extra pay to be lowered accordingly.

On the other hand, it was recommended that the extra weeks both before and after the school term already scheduled for the elementary school counselor be left as is. Dunn explained that the elementary counselor helps out with elementary enrollment at the beginning of school and also is busy at the end of school preparing the results of elementary school testing.

In the area of learning disabilities instruction, it was recommended that extra duty pay of $300 be dropped when a new LD teacher is hired.

Under the new recommendations adopted by the board, the vocational agriculture teacher will be paid for summer work at the same rate as the home economics teacher is presently paid; that is $800 for an extra summer month. This pay revision will represent a $335 increase in extra duty pay for the vocational agriculture teacher who is acquired by the state department of education to work 1 1/2 months a year.

In other business the board accepted a bid of $1,675.60 from Tri-County Asphalt in Malden for blacktopping and grading an area behind the school gymnasium.

In a report on roof work Dunn said the two roofing companies whose bids were accepted at the June meeting have agreed to do the work as proposed and announced that work already is underway.

In a separate motion, the board approved travel expenses of $125 a month for the superintendent for the 1977-78 school year.

The board also approved school lunch prices the same as last year's.

The meeting has been scheduled as a school tax rate and budget hearing; however, no one attended to question the board on the proposed 1977-78 school budget.

SEMO gains improved telephone system

CAPE GIRARDEAU—An expanded and modernized telephone system will go into operation Monday at Southeast Missouri State University after more than six months of planning and installation.

With the implementation of the new system, the university's main telephone number will become 651-2000 and all extension numbers will be changed from three digits to four digits.

The latter change will make it possible for outside callers to bypass the university operator and be received directly in administrative and faculty offices. Calls for student extensions, however, must still be routed through the main university number, a situation that is required because of the necessity to control outgoing long distance calls.

A caller contacting an administrative or faculty office directly will dial the 651 prefix and the extension of the office he is calling. To help disseminate the new extension numbers, an information number, 651-2508, will be in operation for a limited period of time, starting Monday.

Attendants at this number will provide the new extension numbers and can connect callers with them.

The main university operator at 651-2000 will also be able to give the same service.

The 651 prefix is new to Cape Girardeau and will be assigned to Southeast Missouri State only, Southwestern Bell officials said. They also pointed out that the university's area code remains 314 and that calls from Scott City and Jackson exchanges to the university will continue to be local calls, not long distance.

University spokesmen said the updated telephone system will benefit both the university and the general public.

The direct inward dialing feature will mean that calls to the university are answered promptly. Long waits before calls were answered have been common due to the outmoded equipment which is being replaced.

The new equipment will also allow administrative offices to promptly transfer both incoming and outgoing calls.

Bernie school board okays pay equalization

BERNIE—Bernie School board meeting was equalization of extra pay duty for teachers.

At the June meeting of the board, board members Dean Crow, Charlie Jennings, Gabe Pointer, G. E. Pulliam, Shirley Crow Stephen, and Steve Smee had authorized the superintendent to meet with the building principals to work out "inequities" in the present extra duty pay structure.

Bernie high school principal Don Lee and elementary school principal Loy Slinkard were at the meeting to present recommendations which emerged from a meeting July 7 between Supt. Elmer "Doc" Dunn, Slinkard and Lee.

After listening to the recommendations, board members voted to approve the recommendations and to incorporate them into the board policy manual when it comes up for annual review at the August meeting.

One of the chief recommendations was that all teachers who work during the summer when school is not in session will be paid according to the findings of a survey that will be conducted among other schools in the area. Any changes based on these survey results will not take effect until the 1978-79 school budget year.

Other recommendations approved Monday night provide that high school volleyball, softball and baseball coaches each be paid $700 for their coaching duties. "We've been discriminating against the lady (volleyball) coach," Dunn said. The revision will "equalize" the three sports in terms of the pay and extra time involved, Dunn said.

In another recommendation, it was approved that the high school counselor work one week before school opens, rather than a week before and another week after school closes, with the high school counselor's extra pay to be lowered accordingly.

On the other hand, it was recommended that the extra weeks both before and after the school term already scheduled for the elementary school counselor be left as is. Dunn explained that the elementary counselor helps out with elementary enrollment at the beginning of school and also is busy at the end of school preparing the results of elementary school testing.

In the area of learning disabilities instruction, it was recommended that extra duty pay of $300 be dropped when a new LD teacher is hired.

Under the new recommendations adopted by the board, the vocational agriculture teacher will be paid for summer work at the same rate as the home economics teacher is presently paid; that is $800 for an extra summer month. This pay revision will represent a $335 increase in extra duty pay for the vocational agriculture teacher who is quired by the state department of education to work 11 1/2 months a year.

In other business the board accepted a bid of $1,675.60 from Tri-County Asphalt in Malden for blacktopping and grading an area behind the school gymnasium.

In a report on roof work Dunn said the two roofing companies whose bids were accepted at the June meeting have agreed to do the work as proposed and announced that work already is underway.

In a separate motion, the board approved travel expenses of $125 a month for the superintendent for the 1977-78 school year.

The board also approved school lunch prices the same as last year's.

The meeting has been scheduled as a school tax rate and budget hearing; however, no one attended to question the board on the proposed 1977-78 school budget.

Looking back Paving ordinances pass

60 years ago
July 14, 1917
R. H. Maupin of Virginia, joined the office force of the Sikes-McMullin Grain Co., this week.

Ordinances providing for the paving of Malone avenue from the Robinson Lumber Co., to the Frisco station, including portions of School and Prosperity streets, also of Scott street from Malone avenue to North street were passed by the city council at an adjourned session Monday.

"Miss Lottie Millerton," Leonard McMullin's two-year-old filly, won first in a two-year-old trot at Poplar Bluff on the Furth and Lon Nall's "Little Patchen," won in the free-for-all pace.

The commission appointed by Judge Frank Kelly to assess benefits and damages to property adjoining the proposed extension of Malone avenue in the west part of Sikeston filed its report in the office of the circuit clerk in Benton last Saturday. The extension of Malone avenue west from School street is the first step toward paving this street from the end of the present pavement at the E. C. Robinson property at the Prairie street intersection west, straight through the city to the end of the pavement on Highway 60 in the west part of town.

H. J. Welsh was called to Oran Tuesday to embalm the body of Mrs. Albert Glouce, aged 47 years, who died of cancer.

Southeast Missouri is facing one of its greatest road building programs, which necessitated the expenditure of more than two millions of dollars, under direction of the State Highway Department. The largest single item of this vast program will be the paving, with an 18-foot concrete slab of 40 miles of Federal Highway No. 61, through New Madrid county from Sikeston to Portageville. The estimated cost of this pavement is $1,190,000.

The body of Wm. S. Goddard, who died in Fulton, arrived in Sikeston last night. The funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at the home of Add Pratt on William street. He had been ill for more than a year.

The Ellis ambulance returned Abbie Lee Daugherty, daughter of Mrs. Nina Daugherty, from Cairo Sunday, where she underwent a leg operation in a hospital. Barbara Ann Bethune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bethune, was brought from the St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau to her home Sunday. A broken leg, which she suffered in a recent auto accident, had to be reset.

Mrs. Emma Kendall of Denver, Colo., visited from Friday until Monday with her sister, Mrs. Ella Old, and other relatives.

Four members of Sikeston's Boy Scout Troop No. 43, spent approximately two weeks at Camp Lewallen for Southeast Missouri Scouts, located two miles out of Sylvia, on the St. Francis River. The boys were: Bill Holly, Bob McCord, Charles Mitchell, and Hiram Nickens. Bob McCord was awarded top camp honors and Bill Holly was taken into the Order of the Arrow, highest patrol, for special achievement.

Miss Ruth Hollingsworth, Miss Sue Tanner, Miss Alice Van Horne, and Miss Carolyn Weltecke, are attending the Methodist Junior Assembly at Arcadia this week.

Clarence Otis Robinson, 56-

year-old former resident of Sikeston, was fatally injured in a traffic accident near Santa Rosa, N.M., Saturday and died Sunday in a Santa Rosa hospital.

Mrs. Plummer, 66-year-old resident of Portageville, died Saturday in a St. Louis hospital, where she had been a patient the past two weeks.

Walter "J.D." Little, 306 William street, observed his 90th birth anniversary Saturday by taking his usual jaunt over several blocks in the south part of town.

Funeral services were held today in Canolou for Mrs. Sallie Colston, 88 years old of Canolou, who died at her home there Saturday.

Bertrand—John Washington Bell, 83, a retired farmer and resident of Bertrand the past nine years, died at the Bel Aire Nursing Home, Sikeston, Sunday.

What's the law?

The case of the obedient driver

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Dorothy and Howard met at an intersection -- but there was nothing social in their meeting. As Dorothy approached the intersection, she saw a glaring red traffic light that clearly demanded that she halt her vehicle. But, standing in the middle of that intersection was a big and burly police officer who clearly indicated that she should keep going.

Perplexed, Dorothy decided that the police officer looked meaner than the traffic light and kept going. Unfortunately, as Howard approached the same intersection from a side street -- with the green light in his favor -- he didn't see the police officer. The result? The unfortunate meeting of Dorothy and Howard in the middle of the intersection left Howard and his car in first crash condition. And he sued Dorothy for the necessary repairs to both himself and his vehicle.

Gatun Lake, through which ships using the Panama Canal travel for 23.5 miles, is one of the largest artificial bodies of water in the world. It covers 163.38 square miles.

Final "The Tender Trap" production set July 19-23

CAPE GIRARDEAU—The Cape Summer Theatre will present its final production of the season, "The Tender Trap," at 8 p.m. July 19-23 in the Rite Theatre of Grauel Language Arts Building at Southeast Missouri State University.

The play, which served as a basis for a Frank Sinatra-Debbie Reynolds film, is a bright comedy written by Max Shulman and Robert Paul Smith. It centers around love in New York City and was originally set in the 1950s, but it has been updated to the 1970s by Dr. Larry Grisvard, the director who is a professor of theater at Southeast Missouri State.

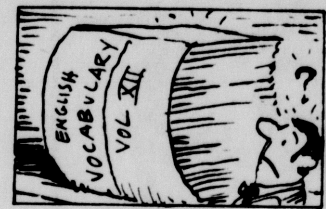

The plot finds bachelor Charlie Rader, played in the Southeast Missouri State production by Steve Little, a junior at the university from Arnold, confronted with the "problem" of being surrounded by women.

Among these women are

Debbie Dawson, a freshman from Florissant, Theresa Donohoo, a sophomore from Cape Girardeau, and Jeanne Norton, a May graduate of Southeast Missouri State from St. Ann. Also among them is the one Charlie eventually marries, Julie, who is portrayed by Kathy Fleig, as recent graduate of the University of Connecticut. Impressed by Rader's situation and unprepared for the type of girl he marries is Charlie's friend, Joe McCall, who is played by Mark Garvey. Garvey is a 1975 Southeast Missouri State graduate who now teaches at Fox High School in Arnold.

The play has been described as tremendously funny, full of farce and double meanings.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting the Rose Theatre Box Office at Southeast Missouri State. The office is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The complete English vocabulary is said to consist of over a million words but it's doubtful whether anyone knows more than one-fifth of these.

R. H. Maupin of Virginia, joined the office force of the Sikes-McMullin Grain Co., this week.

Ordinances providing for the paving of Malone avenue from the Robinson Lumber Co., to the Frisco station, including portions of School and Prosperity streets, also of Scott street from Malone avenue to North street were passed by the city council at an adjourned session Monday.

"Miss Lottie Millerton," Leonard McMullin's two-year-old filly, won first in a two-year-old trot at Poplar Bluff on the Furth and Lon Nall's "Little Patchen," won in the free-for-all pace.

The commission appointed by Judge Frank Kelly to assess benefits and damages to property adjoining the proposed extension of Malone avenue in the west part of Sikeston filed its report in the office of the circuit clerk in Benton last Saturday. The extension of Malone avenue west from School street is the first step toward paving this street from the end of the present pavement at the E. C. Robinson property at the Prairie street intersection west, straight through the city to the end of the pavement on Highway 60 in the west part of town.

H. J. Welsh was called to Oran Tuesday to embalm the body of Mrs. Albert Glouce, aged 47 years, who died of cancer.

Southeast Missouri is facing one of its greatest road building programs, which necessitated the expenditure of more than two millions of dollars, under direction of the State Highway Department. The largest single item of this vast program will be the paving, with an 18-foot concrete slab of 40 miles of Federal Highway No. 61, through New Madrid county from Sikeston to Portageville. The estimated cost of this pavement is $1,190,000.

The body of Wm. S. Goddard, who died in Fulton, arrived in Sikeston last night. The funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at the home of Add Pratt on William street. He had been ill for more than a year.

The Ellis ambulance returned Abbie Lee Daugherty, daughter of Mrs. Nina Daugherty, from Cairo Sunday, where she underwent a leg operation in a hospital. Barbara Ann Bethune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bethune, was brought from the St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau to her home Sunday. A broken leg, which she suffered in a recent auto accident, had to be reset.

Mrs. Emma Kendall of Denver, Colo., visited from Friday until Monday with her sister, Mrs. Ella Old, and other relatives.

Four members of Sikeston's Boy Scout Troop No. 43, spent approximately two weeks at Camp Lewallen for Southeast Missouri Scouts, located two miles out of Sylvania, on the St. Francis River. The boys were: Bill Holly, Bob McCord, Charles Mitchell, and Hiram Nickens. Bob McCord was awarded top camp honors and Bill Holly was taken into the Order of the Arrow, highest patrol, for special achievement.

Clarence Otis Robinson, 56-

year-old former resident of Sikeston, was fatally injured in a traffic accident near Santa Rosa, N.M., Saturday and died Sunday in a Santa Rosa hospital.

Mrs. Plummer, 66-year-old resident of Portageville, died Saturday in a St. Louis hospital, where she had been a patient the past two weeks.

Walter "J.D." Little, 306 William street, observed his 90th birthday anniversary Saturday by taking his usual jaunt over several blocks in the south part of town.

Funeral services were held today in Canolou for Mrs. Sallie Colston, 88 years old of Canolou, who died at her home there Saturday.

Bertrand—John Washington Bell, 83, a retired farmer and resident of Bertrand the past nine years, died at the Bel Aire Nursing Home, Sikeston, Sunday.

What's the law?

The case of the obedient driver

By JACK STRAUSS, L.L.B.

Dorothy and Howard met at an intersection — but there was nothing social in their meeting. As Dorothy approached the intersection, she saw a glaring red traffic light that clearly demanded that she halt her vehicle. But, standing in the middle of that intersection was a big and burly police officer who clearly indicated that she should keep going.

Perplexed, Dorothy decided that the police officer looked meaner than the traffic light and kept going. Unfortunately, as Howard approached the same intersection from a side street — with the green light in his favor — he didn't see the police officer. The result? The unfortunate meeting of Dorothy and Howard in the middle of the intersection left Howard and his car in first crash condition. And he sued Dorothy for the necessary repairs to both himself and his vehicle.

Final "The Tender Trap" production set July 19-23

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Cape Summer Theatre will present its final production of the season, "The Tender Trap," at 8 p.m. July 19-23 in the Rse Theatre of Grauel Language Arts Building at Southeast Missouri State University.

The play, which served as a basis for a Frank Sinatra-Debbie Reynolds film, is a bright comedy written by Max Shulman and Robert Paul Smith. It centers around love in New York City and was originally set in the 1950s, but it has been updated to the 1970s by Dr. Larry Grisvard, the director who is a professor of theater at Southeast Missouri State.

The plot finds bachelor Charlie Reder, played in the Southeast Missouri State production by Steve Little, a junior at the university from Arnold, confronted with the "problem" of being surrounded by women.

Among these women are

Debbie Dawson, a freshman from Florissant, Theresa Donohoo, a sophomore from Cape Girardeau, and Jeanne Norton, a May graduate of Southeast Missouri State from St. Ann. Also among them is the one Charlie eventually marries, Julie, who is portrayed by Kathy Fleig, as recent graduate of the University of Connecticut.

Impressed by Reder's situation and unprepared for the type of girl he marries is Charlie's friend, Joe McCall, who is played by Mark Garvey. Garvey is a 1975 Southeast Missouri State graduate who now teaches at Fox High School in Arnold.

The play has been described as tremendously funny, full of farce and double meanings.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting the Rose Theatre Box Office at Southeast Missouri State. The office is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The complete English vocabulary is said to consist of over a million words but it's doubtful whether anyone knows more than one-fifth of these.

Parma CB Jamboree scheduled

PARMA--The Tri-County Cber's Jamboree is scheduled July 23 from 1 to 10 p.m. at the Parma Community Building.

Door prizes, three grand prizes, trophies, live entertainment sandwiches, soft drinks and coffee will be available.

A 40-channel base radio will be awarded as the top grand prize and a 40-channel mobile unit is the second grand prize. A power microphone will be offered as the third grand prize. Winners need not be present to receive their prize, which will be awarded following a ticket drawing.

Trophies will be presented to the club which sells the most tickets, largest club in uniform, club which travels the farthest, best dressed club and the oldest Cber present. A mobile radio will also be presented to the persons which sells the most advance tickets.

The Parma club is requesting everyone who would like to provide a portion of the live entertainment to call 357-4633, 357-4539 or 357-4455.

Defendant pleads guilty to Wayne County slayings

GREENVILLE—Howard Hulstine, the man accused of murdering two Wayne County men during an April 28, 1976, robbery of the Cow Shed tavern north of Greenville, pleaded guilty to murder Tuesday and was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Dorman Steelman.

Hulstine's plea came during the second day of preparations for his trial on the charge of murdering Cow Shed bartender Carl Fancher. The trial was expected to take about a week.

In court Monday, Judge Steelman overruled a motion by Hulstine's attorney, Jasper Edmundson, of Poplar Bluff, to suppress a taped statement made by Hulstine in which he admitted shooting both men.

Second Cape summer play ending soon

CAPE GIRARDEAU—"Once Upon A Mattress," the second production of the season by the Cape Summer Theatre, has entered the final days of a two-week run. Performances are scheduled at 8 o'clock nightly through Saturday in the Rose Theatre of Grauel Language Arts Building at Southeast Missouri State University.

Loosely based on the legend of the princess and the pea, written by Hans Christian Andersen, the play is a musical farce.

The action centers around the efforts of Princess Winifred, affectionately known as "Fred," to convince her parents and her fiancé, Prince Dauntless, that she is worthy of being his wife. "Fred" is portrayed by Jeanne Norton, a Southeast Missouri State graduate from St. Ann. Her parents are played by Mark Garvey of St. Louis and a teacher at Fox High School in Arnold, and Patti Teepe, a sophomore at Southeast Missouri State from St. Louis. Prince Dauntless is played by Kris Shaw of Cape Girardeau, a recent graduate of Central High School.

Tickets may be obtained through the Rose Theatre Box Office on the Southeast Missouri State campus. The office will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Saturday.

In addition to the taped confession, Hulstine faced testimony by two of his accomplices, Roger Winningham and Donald Stephens, both of whom had turned state's evidence in the case.

Winningham pleaded guilty to murder earlier and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Stephens was on parole from a life sentence at the time of the killings. His parole was revoked and he was sent back to the state penitentiary.

Hulstine, a 33-year-old native of Modesto, Calif., who had been living in St. Louis at the time of the killings, will be transported to Jefferson City later this week. He already has served time in the state penitentiary.

In 1970, he was sentenced to 20 years for assault with intent to kill in connection with the alleged kidnapping and shooting of a Jefferson County man.

The April, 1976, shooting deaths of Fancher and James E. Baker, a 54-year-old retired merchant seaman who lived in a cabin behind the tavern, shocked Wayne County.

According to testimony offered at preliminary hearings, Hulstine, Winningham and Stephens had driven south from St. Louis with the intent to commit robbery.

They stopped at the Cow Shed near closing time and Hulstine and Winningham went in.

During the robbery, Baker came into the bar and was held at gunpoint, according to testimony.

Baker was placed in the men's car, but Fancher tried to struggle and was shot six times, according to testimony.

Other testimony indicated the men drove up the road with Baker while reloading their weapons. They then stopped about nine miles north of the tavern, killed and dumped out their other victim.

Authorities estimated the robbery netted the three men about $250.

What is a simple and effective way to cool off on hot days? Just immerse your hands and wrists in cold water. Part of the effect may be psychological—part may be due to cooling of blood passing thru the wrists and hands—but it works! ## Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, July 14th, the 186th day of 1977. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1789, the people of Paris stormed and captured the Bastille. It was the beginning of the French Revolution.

On this date:
In 1798, the U.S. Congress passed the Sedition Act, making it a Federal crime to publish false, scandalous or malicious writings against the government.

In 1879, Congress provided a yearly pension of $3,000 for President Abraham Lincoln's widow, Mary Todd Lincoln.

In 1958, Iraq's King Faisal II and his heir and the premier were assassinated in a coup in Baghdad.

In 1965, Ambassador Adlai Stevenson collapsed and died on a street in London.

In 1966, eight student nurses were slain in a Chicago apartment by 24-year-old Richard Speck.

Ten years ago: The United Nations General Assembly adopted a resolution asking Israel to halt the action it was taking to alter the city of Jerusalem after the Six Day War.

Five years ago: In South Vietnam, there was fierce fighting around Quang Tri as South Vietnamese troops tried to recapture the city from Communist forces.

One year ago: Jimmy Carter won the Democratic nomination for President at the party's national convention in New York.

Today's birthdays: Former President Gerald Ford is 64. Writer Irving Stone is 74.

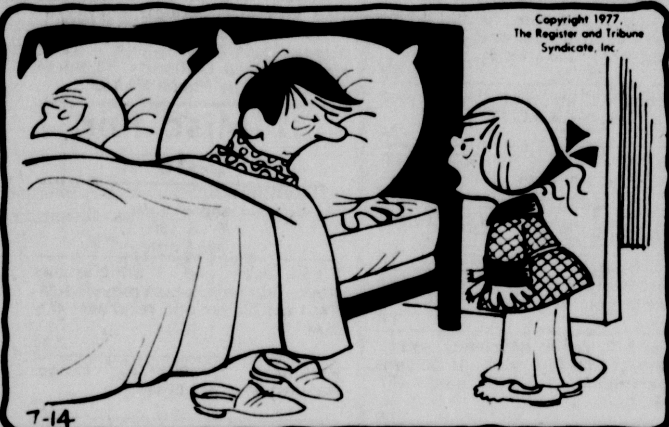

Thought for today: Revolutionary movements attract those who are not good enough for established institutions as well as those who are too good for them. — George Bernard Shaw, Irish-born writer who worked in Britain, 1856-1950.

Gas company head says tapping reserves costly

DALLAS (AP) — The head of a Texas gas company believes the United States has enough untapped gas reserves to maintain current production for at least another 50 years — but it may be an expensive task to get them out of the ground. Al Frank Pitts, president of Pitts Energy Group, also said he believes that John O'Leary, director of the Federal Energy

Administration, was wrong when he said "natural gas has had it."

Pitts' company has published a geophysical map of the United States showing natural gas sediment areas in the 48 southern states based on geophysical studies.

Described by other industry sources, as a "reputable man," Pitts runs a company that operates more than 300 gas wells in East Texas and also has holdings and leases in Tennessee, Kentucky, South Dakota and Mississippi.

He also owned a geophysical survey firm until 1967.

"There are three million square miles of potential oil and natural gas on shore and offshore in the United States," he said in an interview.

"Production has been found only on two per cent of the three million square miles. To tell the American public that natural gas has had it is misleading."

Pitts said he has met with FEA officials and also testified before congressional committees.

After explaining that most of the drilling has been done at relatively shallow depths, Pitts added, "There is basin after basin of deep sediments."

Sediment areas off the north-eastern coasts where his company made several surveys and found sediments up to 30,000 feet are also marked on his maps. "But not a single well has been drilled there," he said.

He said other basins have been tapped only at shallow depths.

The problem is one of economics, he explained. It costs more to drill at those depths and investors are not going to put their money in a venture that cannot be profitable at prices now regulated by the federal government in the inter-state market.

Pitts said his own company stopped drilling for inter-state markets back in the 60s "because we could not afford it at the low prices."

In Texas, where the price is not regulated by state agencies, he said, "We do not have a crisis. We had one several years ago and as soon as the prices went up more wells were drilled."

In areas like the Mississippi Basin, he said, wells have been drilled at 17,000 feet in sediment areas that go down to 25,000 feet.

He cited the discovery in East Texas of two new fields by drilling to 13,500 feet in areas where previous wells had gone only to 8,000 feet.

There is no absolute guarantee that the gas will be found in some of the basins, he said, but he adds, "if the geological formation is the same as those of areas where we have found gas, it is reasonable to expect that we will find gas there too."

He said what can be guaranteed is that someone will invest the money if the chance of making a profit is there.

The profits can come only if the prices are deregulated, he stated.

Deregulation will bring higher prices, he admitted, but he dismissed rumors of uncontrolled increases saying that a high percentage of the cost of gas goes for the maintenance of existing pipelines which are not being used. Only 20 per cent, he said, goes to the producer at the wellhead.

A higher price for domestic gas would be better than high prices paid for imports or even higher prices for alternate fuels, Pitts said, adding "The important thing is that the consumer will have the gas."

Deregulation will come eventually, he predicted.

He praised President Carter's energy conservation recommendations, but said an energy program, to be successful, must include means of increasing the energy sources.

Pitts added "I think Carter failed to recognize the fact that incentives are needed to increase supplies."

He said what can be guaranteed is that someone will invest the money if the chance of making a profit is there.

The profits can come only if the prices are deregulated, he said.

Deregulation will bring higher prices, he admitted, but he dismissed rumors of uncontrolled increases saying that a high percentage of the cost of gas goes for the maintenance of existing pipelines which are not being used. Only 20 per cent, he said, goes to the producer at the wellhead.

A higher price for domestic gas would be better than high prices paid for imports or even higher prices for alternate fuels, Pitts said, adding "The important thing is that the consumer will have the gas."

Deregulation will come eventually, he predicted.

He praised President Carter's energy conservation recommendations, but said an energy program, to be successful, must include means of increasing the energy sources.

Pitts added "I think Carter failed to recognize the fact that incentives are needed to increase supplies."

Maude Jolliff

BENTON—Mrs. Maude E. Jolliff, 88, of Route One died about 3 a.m. today in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston following a four-month illness.

She was born Sept. 4, 1888 in Indiana to the late Charles and Isabella Keen.

Her husband, George Jolliff, died in 1961.

Surviving are: one brother, Earl Keen of Flint, Mich., a sister-in-law, Mrs. Clara Wilmoth of Charleston, with whom she lived for a short time; and two nephews, J. C. Keen of Burton, Mich., and Bob Keen of Benton.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. Friday at Shelby Funeral Home in Charleston.

Services are scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Unity Baptist Church near Benton with the Rev. Dale Huff, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow in Pollard Cemetery near Benton.

Virgil V. Brown

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Virgil Van Brown, 68, a retired farmer, died Wednesday at 6 a.m. in Shelby County Hospital following an extended illness.

Born April 7, 1908 in Whitney, Texas, he was the son of the late Sandy Jackson Brown and Sitha Jane Jackson Brown.

In September 1929 at Leachville, Ark., he married Uda Frances Hogue, who died Sept. 9, 1969.

Surviving are two sons, Wayne and Jackie Brown of Memphis; three daughters, Frances Lute of South Haven, Mich., Betty Curtright of Memphis and Sue Goff of Fort Campbell, Ky.; one brother, Edgar Brown of Tulsa, Okla.; four sisters, Jo Williams of Tulsa, Annie Duncan of Rolla, Mo., Sue McConaughay of Pontiac, Mich., and Winnie Pearl Blevins of Patton, Mo.; and 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. today at Watkins & Sons Funeral Home in Morehouse, Mo., where services are scheduled at 1 p.m. Friday. The Rev. Nathaniel Lewis, pastor of the Morehouse Pentecostal Church, will officiate.

Burial will follow in the Essex (Mo.) Cemetery.

B.F. Camden

MARSTON—B.F. Camden, 62, a retired mill operator, died Wednesday at Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff following an extended illness.

He was born June 14, 1915 in Boss, son of the late Levi and Lora Stafford Camden.

On Dec. 11, 1953, he married Cleo Lovings, who survives.

One brother preceded him in death.

Other survivors include: two sons, Robert Levi and Narvel Camden of Marston; three brothers, Lewis Camden of Cahokia, Ill., Edward Camden of Duplo, Ill., and Kenneth Camden of Boss; six sisters, Lillian McClakey of Rogersville, Hazel Waldron of Rolla, Helen Walker of Springfield, Eva Hanson of Elvins, Edna Pollard of Troy and June Haoku of Osage; and three grandchildren.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. today at Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid, where services are scheduled with the Rev. Bob Burns officiating.

Burial will follow in Mounds Cemetery near Lilbourn.

Walter Tierney

CHAFFEE—Walter Earnest Tierney, 83, a retired farmer, died at 7 a.m. today in Southeast Missouri Hospital at Cape Girardeau, where he had been a patient for three weeks.

Born Aug. 21, 1893 in DeSoto to the late George and Sarah Harrison Tierney, he had lived at Chaffee since 1943.

On Aug. 18, 1918, he married Mae Ellen Breckenridge of DeSoto who survives.

One brother, John Tierney of Sullivan, preceded him in death in 1969.

Tierney was a member of First Baptist Church, where he was a member of the Brotherhood of Men and taught the Men's Bible Class. He was also a charter member of Modern Woodmen of America at DeSoto.

Surviving in addition to his widow, are: one son, Marvin Dale Tierney of Chaffee; one brother, Wallace Tierney of Hillsboro; one sister, Anna Lafone of Sullivan; and three grandchildren, two step-grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 7 p.m. today at Amick-Burnett Funeral Chapel.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday in First Baptist Church with the Rev. R.L. Robinson of East Prairie officiating.

Burial will follow in Forest Hills Memorial Gardens near Morley.

Palbearers will be Dale Tierney, Walter Hatfield, Mike Herbst, Gary Martin, Glenn Myer and Terry Wessel.

Charles Brown

Charles Albert Brown, 95, of 715 W. North St., a retired farmer, died at 9:15 a.m. Wednesday in the Host House at Charleston after a brief illness.

He was born July 26, 1881 in Weatherford, Tex., and had lived in Sikeston for 25 years.

In 1918, he married Mary Lou Carwyle, who preceded him in death.

Surviving are: one son, Charles Myron Brown of Holland; one daughter, Mrs. Melvin (Thyle) Melk of Harrison, Ohio; and three grandchildren.

Friends may call after 5 p.m. Friday at McKie Funeral Home in Charleston, where services are scheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Burial arrangements are incomplete.

G. A. Brashear

Gerrell Allen Brashear, 38, of 709 Troy St. died at 7:45 a.m. today in Missouri Delta Community Hospital of an apparent heart attack.

Deputy Sheriff Dennis Turley said a back door glass was broken to enter the home. The break-in was discovered about 9:45 p.m. Monday.

A suspect is under investigation.

Gas hike effort delayed by error

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Supporters of an initiative measure to raise Missouri's gasoline tax by 3 cents a gallon had to withdraw their first set of petitions Tuesday because of technical problems.

The Missouri Transportation and Development Council, which is pushing the measure to increase the state's gas tax, submitted an estimated 45,000 signatures to Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick.

The initial signatures had been collected in the 1st and 3rd Congressional Districts of St. Louis. A few hours later the council pulled the petitions back.

A spokesman for the group, Jefferson City attorney Jerry Venters, said they were withdrawn because the group discovered some of their pre-numbered petitions were not there.

Some had been returned to St. Louis last week to be notarized and had not been returned, so the council decided to hold them back until they were in numerical order, Venters explained.

In addition, Venters said the council probably would now wait and submit all the necessary signatures next week.

Earlier this year, the council had predicted the first petitions would be submitted to the secretary of state by July 1, but failed to make the predicted date because of organizational problems.

The council has called for the increase in gasoline taxes in order to get an estimated $85 million in tax money to upgrade bridges and roads throughout the state.

Almost 3,000 oil platforms lie off the coasts of Louisiana, Texas, California and in Cook Inlet, Alaska. In the Gulf of Mexico, some are as far as 150 miles from shore.

Congress retains power to veto arms production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is giving President Carter authority to go ahead with development of controversial neutron warheads, but is retaining the power to veto any effort to place the weapons into production.

After nine hours of frequently emotional debate, the Senate Wednesday night rejected 58 to 38 a move headed by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to cut out funds for the weapon contained in a Public Works Appropriations Bill.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee which must decide whether to leave in a limitation allowing Congress to reverse a presidential decision to produce the warheads designed for use by NATO forces in western Europe.

Carter has said he will decide next month whether to order production of the warheads, which kill more by highly-concentrated radiation than the explosive power of more traditional nuclear weapons.

In his unsuccessful fight to kill the neutron appropriation, Hatfield had significant Democratic support, including Sens. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Gary Hart of Colorado and Majority Whip Alan Cranston of California.

A closer vote had been expected. Hatfield lost a similar attempt by a 43 to 42 vote July 1.

One reflection of the importance placed on the issue by Carter was the presence of Vice President Walter Mondale, who was dressed in a tuxedo and would have been called upon to break any tie votes.

Hatfield and other opponents of providing funding said there is a danger a president might be tempted to use the weapons in the false belief that they would not set off a general nuclear conflict.

Beyond that, Hatfield said there is some scientific evidence that the warheads might create a radioactive hazard to civilian populations, despite the arguments of the Carter administration that the weapons' damage would be limited to a small area.

But many senators who voted with Hatfield said they were not necessarily opposed to the warhead, but instead wanted to insure the Senate reserved its role in setting nuclear weapons policy and did not give the President "a blank check" to go ahead with production.

Both Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd and Minority Leader Howard Baker supported the neutron warhead. But in the end, Byrd and Baker proposed the compromise which passed the Senate 74 to 19 and provides that if both Houses of Congress vote to kill the weapon a production decision by Carter would be reversed. Congress would have 45 days to act on such a proposal, and given the Senate vote on the Hatfield amendment, any congressional veto seemed unlikely.

The Byrd-Baker compromise passed after Kennedy failed in an attempt to allow a veto by just one House of Congress. Until Wednesday, the cost of the neutron warheads, to be installed in artillery shells and Lance missiles, had been classified secret.

But in a legally-required report which Carter sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the midst of the debate, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency set the cost at $32.1 million for production through 1980.

Otasco may locate store in East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE—Otasco, an automotive supply and accessories firm with home offices in Oklahoma City, Okla., has expressed an interest in locating a store in East Prairie, according to a report heard Monday night at the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

President Dee Dill said the chamber was contacted by the company's manager, Burton Mann, in early June. The company indicated it would open the new business if suitable facilities are available.

Dill said inquiries about buildings have been made and one has been located. Owners of the property have indicated they would renovate the building to meet Otasco's needs should the firm decide to locate here.

Committees for the 1977-78 chamber year were also announced Monday night, including: Merchants, Tom Baker, Lee Felts, Delbert Wilson and Joe Watson; membership, Dick Reed, Hunt Wellborn and Steve Hodges; industrial, L. D. Davis, Frank Carter and Lloyd Hogan; agricultural, Avery Hutcheson and Lloyd Hall; community betterment: Bob Hess, Bill Brewer and Mrs. H. L. Benson; publicity, Shirley Pritchett, Joel Savell, Barney Webster; scout hut, Carey Johnson, Joe Webb and L. B. Presson; and the 1978 banquet committee, Hunt

Wellborn, Betty Johnson and Barney Webster.

A report on the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program, given by Shirley Allen, chamber secretary, showed the program now has 153 members, who have served 3,027 volunteer hours during the past two months. The program, sponsored by the chamber, has a new "handyman" project under the sponsorship of the Women's Achievement and Defiance Club, which donates $25 per year toward the program.

It was also announced that beginning July 18 Mississippi County residents aged 55 and over will have use of a Southeast Missouri Transportation System bus. The cost will be $6 per year, $5 and a $1 donation, plus five cents for each mile.

Regular meetings of the chamber have been set for 7 p.m. the second Monday of each month. Meetings will either be held at the chamber office or at Delta Diner on Highway 105. Members will be notified one week in advance of each meeting as to the location.

Customs officers at Ranier, Minnesota, seized 92 tons of saltcake, valued at $4,136, when they discovered the shipment had not been manifested.
